SHERIFF WANTS MEN; NEED DOUBTED

Sheriff Walter F. Young has a long, hard uphill pull ahead of him if he expects to get 36 more men from the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors.

Court House observers in Martinez have already picked up a large amount of information concerning a report prepared by the Contra Costa County Administrator's Office studying the justification for Young's personnel requests.

YOUNG HAS STATED he is seeking the immediate hiring of eight more Patrol Deputies for his Richmond Sub-Station to patrol the North Richmond area.

This area has been one of the key points in the current grand jury investigation into vice and gambling throughout the unincorporated areas of the county.

In Young's request for additional manpower, he asks for 21 additional patrol deputies (Grade II). There are presently 61 grade II deputies in the county, but only 40 are performing patrol duties.

The remainder, according to the sheriff's statistical report of 1958, which has been used by the administrator's office in the determination of the justification for additional manpower are "tied up in other functions."

J. P. McBRIEN, in a statement to The Sun, said he would not reveal the contents of the report prepared by Joseph Connery, analyst, until the present grand jury investigation is terminated.

Connery's report which was turned over to McBrien will some day go to the County Board of Supervisors which will either approve or disapprove the sheriff's requests.

A major feud between the administrator and the sheriff seems to be looming, most curbstone supervisors in Martinez are saying.

THE ADMINISTRATOR'S men can't understand why the patrol deputies are not patrolling.

Examples are: There is one patrol deputy who delivers food to the county's prisoners. The county spends $70,000 per year for prisoner's food, but the companies who provide the goods don't deliver the food.

There are four patrol deputies, who earn approximately $530 per month, who are radio dispatchers. The argument has been brought forth police officers will not take orders from a woman dispatcher, therefore grade II deputies are used on the radio desks.

There are six grade II patrol deputies who act as bailiffs in the superior courts of the county. There will be one more bailiff when the seventh superior court is put into operation.

THE ARGUMENT has been brought forth that the sheriff's office needs a place to put its older deputies who are just under retirement age and are unable to perform patrol duties. One bailiff is 42 years old.

The grade II deputy is paid more than a grade I deputy who is used as a jailer. The administrator's office has reportedly been interested in urging the civil service commission to make the bailiff position the duty of a Grade I deputy.

The sheriff has countered to the charges of poor administration by stating he has inherited the poor administrative practices of past administrations.

ANOTHER FACT uncovered by the administrator's office is that the sick record of the Grade II patrol deputies is worse than the Grade I deputies.

The sheriff's office is broken down into five divisions, patrol, detective, detention, civil and communication.

In all there are 117 uniformed police personnel in the county which gives a ratio of approximately one police officer per 1000 persons.

One of the main problems which is being faced by the administrator's office and ultimately will be decided by the board of supervisors is whether the county is to provide municipal or rural police protection to its residents.

"One of the very reasons," Connery said, "for incorporation is for more adequate police protection."

For example, Richmond has 17 detectives under a lieutenant to police a city of approximately 75,000. The sheriff has six detectives to police 661 square miles of unincorporated area with an estimated population of 240,000.

The sheriff has announced there will be a shuffling of personnel in the department. Whether this will give him eight more deputies for patrol work remains to be seen.

The changes, according to the undersheriff, are to be announced Monday or Tuesday. Young has stated there will be no firings.

Highland School Site Protested

Board Chairman Appeals For Alternate Location

By LARRY GLAZIER

Nathan Gray, chairman of the board of trustees of the Orinda Union School District, has called on protesting citizens to, "come up with a good proposed school location on the south side."

Gray made his proposal at Monday night's regular monthly meeting, at which 25 citizens were present to protest the board's consideration of a proposed school site on the corner of Overhill Road and Highland Court.

THE BOARD chairman repeatedly told the citizens' group, which was so large the meeting had to be moved to a larger room to discuss the site, that, "we have taken no formal action on the property — we have only looked at it and made some investigation."

District officials had proposed purchase of the site for construction of the district's seventh school building, a 10-room, kindergarten through fourth grade unit.

Mrs. Ruth Gilvee, one of the trustees present at the meeting, explained that the board was considering the property because it had been recommended in a recent Stanford Research Institute survey and also by a local citizens' committee.

MOST OF the protestants were residents of the Highland Court-Overhill Road area, who were led by W. A. Sparling, 9 Highland Court, who presented a three-point petition on behalf of the group.

The petition, signed by 44 persons, was prepared with the assistance of B. W. Booker, retired state highway engineer who is now a private consultant, according to Sparling.

It was submitted for the following reasons, Sparling reported:

1—The proposed site is too small, primarily because only three acres are "usable." The group contended that while the property for sale is much larger, only three acres are flat land.

2—It is not serviceable from the south. Sparling said Overhill Road, the access road, is only 20 feet wide and school buses, as well as other vehicles, would have difficulty getting to the site.

3—The proposed site is not in the center of the area the school board intends to serve.

GRAY, APPARENTLY feeling that something had been left unsaid in the petition, informed the group that in his study of the memorandum he would consider that the signers also object to "having a school next door."

Ramsay-Rathke Feud Complicated By News Reports

The current grand jury investigation into vice and gambling in the county was further complicated this week by a series of exchanges between Undersheriff Harry Ramsay and Chief Administrative Assistant to the Sheriff Ruth Rathke.

The problem started when Ramsay was quoted in an Oakland newspaper as saying there would be disciplinary action taken against Mrs. Rathke for not coming to work.

MRS. RATHKE, upon reading the article, filed a letter with the Civil Service Commission and the Sheriff's Office telling of her whereabouts Tuesday morning.

Ramsay denied he had ever stated there would be action taken against Mrs. Ratke.

Elwyn Lufkin, a reporter who had filed the story, informed Mrs. Rathke the undersheriff had made the statement. Later he stated that the statement had not been made.

Meanwhile, a later story in the same paper claimed that the disciplinary action had been dropped.

RAMSAY SAYS there never was any action planned by him, the newspaper said the charges had been dropped and Mrs. Rathke states that any action taken against her will be "politi-

Jury Action Up To Its Members

The determination of whether any indictments will result from the Contra Costa Grand Jury's investigation into alleged vice and gambling activities will be entirely up to members of the panel.

District Attorney John Nejedly reported that he would not seek any indictments from the grand jury. He said, "It is up to the grand jury to take any action. They represent the people. The facts have been given to them."

But Grand Jury Foreman John Dunlap stated that the panel ended Tuesday night's session with the testimony of Sheriff's Lieutenant Robert Fisher and has had no opportunity to deliberate.

DUNLAP SAID, "We are not going to take any action unless the district attorney feels he has a good case. We will seek his advice."

He added, "The jury will determine the appropriate action from the facts they have been given."

12 Men Tell Participation In 'Smoker'

Twelve men have admitted they are equally responsible with Ray Van Tassell for the smoker held at the Holy Ghost Hall, which has been a key issue in the investigation of the Contra Costa Grand Jury into vice and gambling.

Van Tassell said that Clarence Linn, assistant state attorney general, was informed that each of the sportsmen would testify before the grand jury.

"These sportsmen are equally responsible with me for the event and they do not feel that it is right that all the blame should be placed on one member of the committee," Van Tassell claimed.

None of the 12 were called by the grand jury to testify.

The men named by Van Tassell are:

J. E. Winterbottom, 1632 Green Valley, Danville; William J. Barton, 2706 Argyle, Concord; Nelson Newton, 100 Adak Court, Walnut Creek; H. N. Southern, 2422 Eighth Avenue, Oakland; G. C. Michelson, 5345 Wentworth Avenue, Oakland; J. Urbani, 22237 Main Street, Hayward; Ken Faunce, 2667 Larkey Lane, Walnut Creek.

Court Can Order Jury Testimony Of 2 Witnesses

The two "mystery witnesses" who were clandestinely shuttled in and out of Tuesday's marathon grand jury session could be held in contempt only if a judge orders them to testify before the county panel.

They were identified Wednesday night as Lucille (French Peggy) Peterson, who has a long list of aliases and of arrests for prostitution, and Marvin Timberlake, a Lake Tahoe gambler who reportedly was questioned about alleged gambling activities at Molino's Midway Club on Clayton Road.

District Attorney John Nejedly announced that the two could be ordered to testify by a court. He made the statement after informing reporters that two of Tuesday's witnesses had taken the Fifth Amendment before the grand jury during its record 10-hour hearing.

French Peggy, a well-known Northern California madam, reputedly was queried about an alleged house of prostitution on Balfour Road, five miles east of Brentwood—the same house which Deputy Sheriff Richard Cakebread testified last week that he had made reports about.

Nejedly said he intends to take the matter before the superior court "as soon as we get to it," but he added that his office already is "about three weeks behind."

ABOUT MIDNIGHT Tuesday, when the district attorney announced that the presentation of evidence in the vice and gambling case had come to an end, he reported, "We can do without them. Presumptions speak far more elegantly than testimony."

Nejedly explained that the first step in attempting to force the witnesses to testify is to file a petition in the superior court, setting forth the geenral area of testimony they will be asked to give, the fact that they hid behind the Fifth Amendment and that he is offering them immunity from criminal prosecution.

This immunity, he said, must be for any felonies "committed in our jurisdiction."

THERE WAS absolutely no indication who the witnesses were or their implication in the case. Courtroom observers admitted they had never seen either of the two before, but implied they have been involved in illegal activities.

After the petition is filed, Nejed-

Acalanes District Okays $2 Million Plus Budget

Acalanes High School District trustees this week okayed a 1959-60 school budget of $2,841,575. The budget for last year was $2,722,-604.

School officials estimate that the high school tax rate will move from the present $1.727 rate to the limit of $1.75, plus an additional five cents in allowable overide tax for employee retirement contribution and community services.

The new budget reflects increases in the district's operational outlay due to an enrollment rise of 12 per cent and increased personnel costs. It also reflects a decrease in capital outlay expenditures for the district for next year.

Actual disposition of the tax rate awaits a final report on the district's assessed valuation.

Trustees also read a copy of a letter from Victor Sauer, county roads superintendent, to the county board of supervisors in answer to a request by high school trustees for improvements on Tice Valley Boulevard.

Sauer stated that this year's highway budget calls for engineering and right of way acquisition studies on Tice Boulevard in contemplation of providing a shoulder for pedestrians, with the work scheduled for the 1960-61 budget.

Sauer's letter to the supervisors stated that his department would cooperate and provide improvements along the shoulder of the road in the interim.

High school trustees have been seeking shoulder pedestrian walkways for the safety of Del Valle students who will start school this September.

In other action trustees:

Let a contract for grading, paving (tennis courts, parking and roadway), and installation of a sprinkling system at Del Valle High to O. C. Jones Co. for a bid of $78,230.

Turned down a $4,000 bid to install a sprinkling system in the front area of the Las Lomas campus as "to high."

Called for bids for bleachers at Acalanes High field to replace old bleachers on the field and increase the seating capacity.

Approved an agreement with the County Education Office for continuing audio-visual services; accepted the resignations of two Las Lomas teachers, Roberta Bristol and Gene Schultz, who resigned to accept positions at Watsonville Junior College and the University of Nevada, respectively; reelected William Lee for another term as president of the board, and Mrs. Alice McBride as clerk.

Grand Jury Ends Vice Hearings

Scattered Vice, Gambling Present in County: Sheriff

Sheriff Walter F. Young issued a statement Tuesday admitting scattered vice and gambling in Contra Costa County and that his office had been made aware of the situation by the District Attorney.

In a three page statement, Young said that through an administrative error in his office, he had not personally been made aware of the gambling and vice reports from John A. Nejedly, district attorney.

Young said he would put into effect rules and regulations demanding tighter contral of deputies' outside employment.

However, Young failed to mention that on January 5 of this year, when he went into office, he said in a press release that all rules and regulations of the department would remain in effect until they were superceded or rescinded.

In the Manual of Policy and Regulation put into effect by past Sheriff Harry A. Brown, there is a regulation which demands all deputy sheriffs to submit in writing requests for outside employment to the sheriff and a written reply is necessary before the employment may be taken.

This rule, according to several deputy sheriffs, has never been rescinded or altered.

THE COMMENTS were issued by Young at the conclusion of an investigation by his office into reports prepared by the district attorney's office and the state attorney general's special investigators.

Young blamed the inability of his office to control the vice and gambling on a lack of manpower and promised there would be major changes in personnel.

Here is the complete text of Young's statement:

"Many newspaper reports of the present Grand Jury investigation have left some unanswered questions. They have likewise, by innuendo, raised suspicions concerning unnamed individuals. I believe the public is entitled to some clarification.

"I have conducted a personal investigation of charges that have been made and the conduct of my office.

"A review of specific charges concerning vice activity in the unincorporated area indicates that the level of law enforcement which I demand has not been provided. I am taking immediate steps to effect personnel changes in my department to better insure the effective prosecution of all violations of the law.

"A review of the rceords of this office indicates that the District Attorney did refer communications to this office.

"These communications, by reason of an administrative mix-up, were not brought to my attention. I have now established a system of office control that will bring all such correspondence to my personal attention immediately, and I assure the District Attorney that all complaints from the District Attorney will receive speedy and effective action.

"MANY STATEMENTS have been published about illegal activities in the North Richmond area. This area has always posed a problem of control in the face of limited manpower. To properly police the area will require eight additional men. This has been repeatedly called to the attention of the County Administration.

The present investigation has pointed up the problem to the public and it should bring about favorable results. The area primarily involved is just outside the city limits of Richmond.

"Investigation of the Sportsmen's Smoker in the Walnut Creek area revealed that three deputies of this office were employed to assist in parking cars outside of the Holy Ghost Hall on their own time.

"They did not go into the premises nor participate directly in the affair.

"Written statements have been turned over to the District Attorney setting forth in detail the activities of those men. The affair was not and will not be 'condoned' in any way by the Sheriff's Office and was done without any knowledge on the part of this office.

"NEW RULES and regulations will insist that the men of this department accepting outside work shall make a prior determination as to the nature and legality of the activity so as to preclude any unfavorable innuendos. Appropriate disciplinary action will be taken in such instances.

"Investigation by this office discloses isolated illegal activities. Law enforcement in the unincorporated areas is being carried out effectively by the limited manpower of this office.

"I am satisfied that there is no organized gambling or crime of any form in the County of Contra Costa. Any evidence to the contrary should be made available to this office.

"IF MY INVESTIGATION or the investigation of the Grand Jury discloses the violation of any rules and regulations by the members of this department, I will insist upon their being disciplined or prosecuted as the case may dictate.

"If the District Attorney has any information concerning irregularities of any member of the Sheriff's Department, I will welcome his turning the same over for appropriate action.

"If the District Attorney possesses evidence that any member of this office has violated any laws, I would welcome his filing a formal complaint charging such person and I will assist such prosecution in every way possible.

"I stand ready and willing to cooperate with the District Attorney and any other agencies at any and all times to insure good law enforcement for this county.

"As I have repeatedly advised, law enforcement is a cooperative effort.

"Unless and until cooperation is forthcoming from all sides, the Sheriff, the District Attorney, the municipal police departments and all other agencies, the county will be the target for criticism.

"The Sheriff's Office will do its part to bring about harmony and effective law enforcement.

Board Studies Second Building

Jack Buchter, Lafayette architect, was employed by the board of trustees of the Moraga School District Monday night to prepare preliminary drawings for the district's second school building.

The meeting was a special session called for the purpose of taking action on the 1959-60 operating budget for the district. The board will hold its regular monthly meeting August 17.

TRUSTEES APPROVED the total budget of $119,446, which represents an increase of about $10,000 or nine per cent, over the $109,197 figure for last year. The new budget will require no tax increase.

The proposed new school will be located in the Orchard Dell area off Camino Pablo, and District Superintendent Charles Toll said it is unknown when actual construction will begin.

Fate of Probe Lies in Hands Of County Jurors

By BOB RAPIDA

What started out to be a "flash in the pan," according to many observers, has turned out to be the most intensive investigation into law enforcement in the county's history.

The county grand jury has already set some type of "record" by hearing 20 hours of testimony on reports of vice and gambling in the county.

THE PARADE of witnesses has been almost unending and the testimonies of some have gone as long as two hours.

In one session, Tuesday, the grand jury met for 10 hours, taking only a brief recess during the afternoon; adjourning for dinner for slightly over an hour and then meeting again for five solid hours without a break.

John Dunlap, foreman, announced after the Tuesday night session (12:10 a.m. Wednesday), the hearings were closed by the grand jurors and a final session for deliberation would be held within two weeks.

At first, people close to county politics were betting 100-1 that the grand jury would do nothing at the conclusion of its hearings, which were not expected to last over a few hours.

NOW, THESE same persons are lowering the odds and predicting a "county-wide explosion" when the facts of the testimony are made public.

The testimony behind the closed grand jury doors, however, may never be known, should the grand jury decide not to ask for indictments

The witnesses called have been one of the keys to what action is expected from the grand jury.

First to testify, at his request, was Sheriff Walter F. Young of Lafayette, who took office in January.

YOUNG READ his testimony from a prepared statement. Next came a battery of state investigators for the Attorney General's Office including Clarence Linn, assistant attorney general.

Ray Van Tassell of Alamo and Patrick "Packy" Lee, Crockett tavern owner, testified before the grand jurors and a fourth state investigator, William White, appeared.

At this point, however, two mystery witnesses, who followed two deputy sheriffs, Richard Cakebread and Marvin Dickenson, seemed to change the course of the entire grand jury proceedings.

Dickenson had, in effect, testified that he knew little of the vice situation in North Richmond, where he had walked on a foot beat for 19 months, but, he said, Barden Carlson was the vice officer and responsible for vice investigation.

CAKEBREAD SAID he had reported his suspicions of prostitution in the east end of the county as early as April and late as June, but nothing had been done about it.

The two mystery witnesses, a man and a woman, who were termed by Nejedly as being "personally involved in vice" both took the Fifth Amendment and

Glorietta School Work Acceptance Is Delayed

Final acceptance of the construction project on the Glorietta School additions was delayed until next month by the Orinda Union School District board of trustees.

The action was taken Monday night after trustees received a report from the contractor, the Ed Eoff Co. of Richmond, that the $111,000 project is complete except for the receipt and installation of a $1,900 electrical panel, without which the testing of electric outlets and installation of the heating system cannot be finalized.

A MONTH ago, the board extended completion of the project until Monday night (August 3), and entered into an agreement with the contractor and bonding company that if the work was not finished by August 31, the contractor would pay a $100 per day penalty.

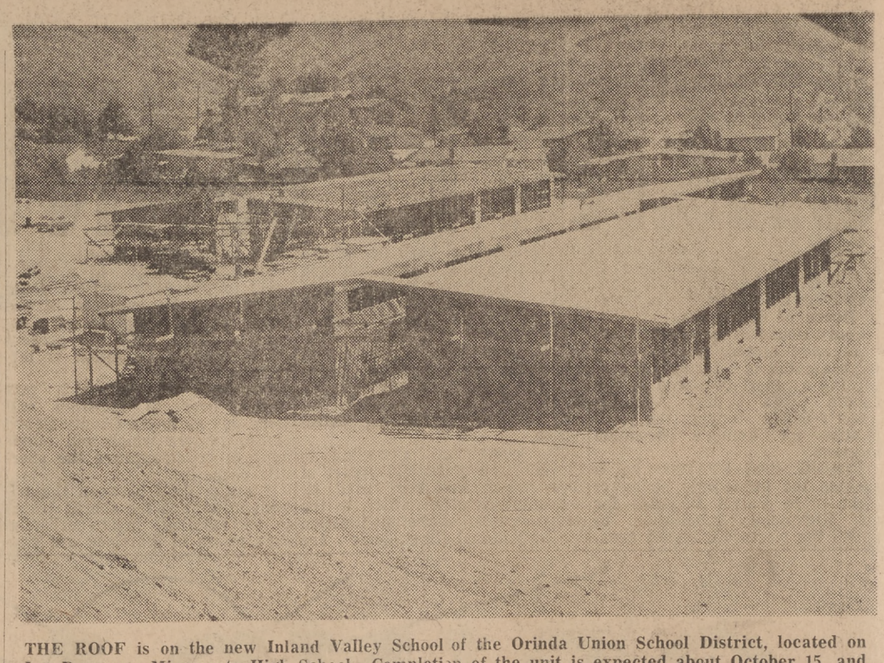
Joseph Sheaff, district superintendent, reported that the panel was part of a change order on the project and the delay in its construction cannot be blamed on the contractor.

The contractor assured the board that the project would be completed, including testing and heating, by August 15, and Sheaff said that even if the additions are not formally accepted the district can use the buildings.

BOARD MEMBERS chose to allow until August 31 for completion of the units, and to grant final acceptance at their September meeting.

Trustees also voted to pay the contractor up to 90 per cent of the project cost, but to withhold 10 per cent, or about $11,000, until the additions are accepted.

The project includes construction of three classrooms, a library and a kindergarten.



THE ROOF is on the new Inland Valley School of the Orinda Union School District, located on Ivy Dr., near Miramonte High School. Completion of the unit is expected about October 15, and District Superintendent Joseph Sheaff reported a few classes will be on double sessions at the Del Rey and Glorietta schools until the Inland Valley site is ready for occupancy. At that time, he said, the classes will be transferred intact and with the same teachers to the new building. Work on the school is about a month ahead of schedule, Sheaff said. —Sun photo by Dave Ogden.

Inland Valley Plans Are Told by Orinda Schools

Orinda's newest school, the Inland Valley unit, is now about a month ahead of its construction schedule and probably will be completed about October 15, according to District Superintendent Joseph Sheaff.

He reported to the board of trustees of the Orinda Union School District Monday night that until the Inland Valley School is completed some temporary arrangements will have to be made in order to house all of the district's students.

LETTERS EXPLAINING the temporary arrangements are being sent to all of the parents who will be involved, according to Sheaff.

As explained by the superintendent, the interim arrangements are:

All students who will be in the kindergarten through the sixth grade at the Del Rey School and who attended the Del Rey School last year will return to that school starting September 10, when school opens. The first, second and third grades will be on double sessions, only until the Inland Valley School is finished.

THOSE STUDENTS who will be in the sixth grade this year and who live in the Ivy Drive or Northwood-Southwood area will be assigned to one of the three sixth grade classes at Glorietta School until the new school is completed.

Students who will be in kindergarten through the sixth grade and who attended Glorietta last year, will return to Glorietta this year.

THE SIXTH GRADE students will remain at Glorietta until the Inland Valley School is completed. They will then be transferred to the new school site: Three sixth grade classes will be involved.

First grade pupils at Glorietta will be on double sessions only until completion of the Inland Valley site. Then, the sixth grades will be moved, allowing the first grades to complete the year on regular sessions.

Sheaff noted that in all cases, students transferred to the new school will be moved as a group and will have the same teachers.

Temperatures Hit 98 and 47 During Week

Orinda's weather during the last seven-day period remained about the same, with a high temperature of 90 and a low of 47. As has been the case for many weeks, there was no rain.

Jaycees Install 6 New Members

Six new Walnut Creek Jaycees were installed Monday by President Dick Vargas at the membership meeting in the sanitation district building at 8 p.m.

They are: Burt Daniels, Bill Hayward Realty; Art Harvey, engineer; Bob Ingersoll, Travelers Insurance Company; Ernie Kellberg, U.S. Steel; John Parmeter, Monsanto Chemical; Jerry Stollar, optomitrist; and Dean Woolery, Mutual of New York Insurance.

The Jaycees are anxious to meet young men who are interested in making Walnut Creek a better community and who are willing to devote some of their free time toward community betterment projects.

President Vargas invites such young men to attend the regular and third Tuesdays of each membership meetings on the first month at the sanitary district headquarters on Springbrook Road.

Meetings commence at 8 p.m.

Orinda Board Hires Architect For Two Sites

The Orinda Union School District board of trustees authorized employment of an architect Monday night for two separate projects within the district.

Board members voted to employ James Anderson of the Oakland firm of Anderson, Simonds, Dusel and Campini to render architectural advice concerning acquisition of a school site in the Altarinda area and to prepare preliminary plans for construction of a multipurpose room at the Del Re School.

JOSEPH SHEAFF, district superintendent, reported to the board that the owners of the Altarinda property have agreed to sell some of the land to the school district for location of a new school building, but "we need architectural advice as to the particular site we choose."

He explained the Altarinda site would fulfill the district's predicted needs north of the freeway.

Anderson's report may be ready in time for the board's September meeting, Sheaff said, and although funds for the acquisition of the site will not be available until early in 1960, it would be beneficial for the Altarinda developers to know which site the district is considering.

THE BOARD agreed to pay Anderson at his hourly rate if he is not the successful bidder on the drawings for the school construction, when it is voted. If Anderson is the successful bidder at that time, he has agreed to do the preliminary study work for no additional cost.

Construction of the multipurpose room at Del Re was recommended in several recent planning studies made for the district. The studies were combined in a single report by Phillip D. Bush, one of the district's trustees, who recommended that the room be completed in time for the 1960-61 school year.

THE 6,200-SQUARE foot room would be the same as the multipurpose room at Sleepy Hollow School, 50 by 70 feet, plus a stage, kitchen and walkway, according to the projected plans.

Construction of a similar room at the still incomplete Inland Valley School, also recommended for completion within the next year, was postponed indefinitely because the need is not great enough.

Studies made for the district indicate that in the 1959-60 school year the proposed enrollment is 3,354, large enough to qualify for both construction projects, plus the home economics and industrial arts rooms at Inland Valley and administration and special service space at Pine Grove School.

Tips (More) for Local Vacationers

Many local residents are among the more than 200 million Americans who will be taking a vacation trip this year.

Here are some tips from Pacific Telephone manager H. C. Greenhalgh on how that trip can be more worry-free and enjoyable:

"Nowadays, many experienced travelers find that it's wise to make up a travel itinerary before they start on their journey," H. C. Greenhalgh said.

"The itinerary lists the phone numbers of hotels or motels where they have reservations and the numbers of friends and relatives they may be visiting. It's a good idea to leave a copy of this with relatives, neighbors and one's business office so quick contact can be made if an emergency arises."

In a similar fashion, Greenhalgh said, many vacationists take along the phone numbers of close neighbors, relatives and business contacts back home so they can readily check on various items.

"Naturally, as far as hotel and motel accomodations go, it's always a good idea to phone ahead for reservations," Greenhalgh noted.

"One good time to call, if the traveler knows where he is going to be that night, is in the morning before departure.

"As an alternative, if the itinerary is a bit indefinite, it's a good idea to phone at mid-day, or in early afternoon.

Marine Officer Joins Reserve Training Unit

Two new Marine Corps reserve arrivals in Contra Costa County have joined Volunteer Training Unit 12-29 which meets Wednesday nights at 8 p.m. at 2040 Mt. Diablo Boulevard, Walnut Creek.

The new residents of the county are Lt. Col. Herbert W. Young and Captain Don R. Galloway.

Lt. Col. Young resides at 5 Rita Way, with his wife Jane and their children, Sarah, 9, and Richard, 6.

He is a member of the San Francisco operations office of the Atomic Energy Commission, transferring here from the AEC's Savannah River plant at Aiken, South Carolina.

He is a World War II veteran and began instructing in thermonuclear weapons when recalled for the Korean emergency.

He and his wife are natives of Williamsburg, Virginia, where both were active in church and civic work. His late father, Dr. R. C. Young, was head of the physics department of William and Mary College for 30 years.

Captain Galloway is a Korea veteran and University of California graduate who recently joined the industrial engineering department of Columbia-Geneva division of U. S. Steel Corporation at Pittsburg.

For the past several years he has been with California Packing Corporation at Sacramento, where his wife Eileen and their daughters, Cathleen, 5 and Dana, 4 are residing until they obtain a home in Contra Costa County.

Petitions Still Circulate In Sleepy Hollow Area

Incorporation petitions are still being circulated in the Sleepy Hollow area by the Sleepy Hollow Incorporation Committee in hopes of securing a substantially greater number of signatures than the required 25 per cent.

The group already has the 25 per cent of property owners on petitions, meaning it can qualify for public hearings on the proposed incorporation, which would affect 320 families and 1,300 persons in the 350-acre development.

DELOSS WINKLER, one of the committee members, has stated that the group desires to "reach every home in Sleepy Hollow" with the petitions.

It is expected that in the near future, possibly later this month, the petitions will be taken before the County Board of Supervisors and hearings will be set.

The petitions have been circulated since early last month, when the committee gained approval to ask for signatures. Since that time, the committee has expanded and the boundaries of the proposed City of Sleepy Hollow have boundary commission.

MAIN REASON behind the proposed incorporation is to protect the area's road system from being enlarged and expanded to permit through traffic.

At present the only access road to and from the Sleepy Hollow area is Lombardy Lane, but residents fear that the county plans to extend Lombardy and Washington lanes to through traffic, creating wide boulevards and destroying the area's tranquility.

Foreign Student Thanks Women's Club for Help

"I shall never forget the good, kind members of the Woman's Club of Walnut Creek and all they did for me during my year in America." So reads in part the letter the club received from exchange student, Meral Sever, who departed recently for her home in Istanbul, Turkey.

Meral, a student at Las Lomas High School last year, was brought to the United States by the American Field Service which the local club helps support financially.

Arriving at Las Lomas, Meral found that no funds were available to enable her to take the home economics sewing and dressmaking course as she had planned.

Club members "adopted" Miss Sever, made the necessary arrangements and she became, as the year went on, an outstanding seamstress.

Many of the beautiful garments she made were on display at the school and she treated club members to a fashion show as she modeled her many costumes at the International luncheon at which she and her foster mother, Mrs. W. Hill, were guests of honor.

As a farewell gift the club presented to Meral sewing equipment and materials to take back to her homeland.

Well-Known Marksman to Appear Here

Walnut Creek's Sportsman's Club has announced that its Tuesday meeting will feature the pistol shooting of Inspector Jack Richardson of the Oakland Police Department.

Richardson is a world famous marksman, having appeared at countless county and state fairs and being featured on television and in national magazines.

The meeting will commence at 7 p.m. at a cost of $1.50, including dinner.

Al Kenville of 140 Kingsdale Court, Walnut Creek, is a new member of the organization, according to the newsletter.

Water Salt May Go Higher, County Reports

According to Dr. Glen Kent, Assistant County Health Officer, "the salt content of many water supplies in Contra Costa County may continue higher than usual."

Kent added that although the salt content of all water supplies in the county is within the recommended general health standards, heart patients on salt free or limited salt intake diets, and their physicians, should be aware of the possible problem.

THE AMOUNT of change is small, yet may be of significance.

Patients who get their drinking water, in part or in full, from the Contra Costa Canal (City of Antioch, Bay Water Company, California Water Company which includes Concord, Gregory Gardens County Water District, City of Pittsburg, and Martinez) should also be aware of this problem.

MANY WATER softeners in use today increase the salt content of the water used in the home and the patient on a low salt diet should also be aware of this.

One's physician can make necessary arrangements and allowances for salt increase if he is aware of the problem.

Budget Approved By Orinda Board

A total operating budget of $1,400,389 for the 1959-60 school year was approved Monday night by the board of trustees of the Orinda Union School District.

The budget is $104,301, or slightly more than eight per cent, higher than the 1958-59 figure of $1,296,088, and district officials indicated it would mean a tax increase of 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

District Superintendent Joseph Sheaff explained to the board that he originally estimated that the district's assessed valuation would increase by seven per cent, but in reality, the increase is only five per cent, necessitating the tax hike.

Ivy Drive to Be Reconstructed; Drains Planned

The County Board of Supervisors has approved plans and specifications for the reconstruction of Ivy Drive.

Pavement in front of Miramonte High School will be reconstructed to modern standards allowing for future growth of the school and surrounding areas.

Drainage facilities are also being installed.

Work on this project should begin around September 1, and should be completed by October 15.

School Board Studies New Insurance Plan

Parents of students in the Orinda schools may soon be offered better insurance coverage for their children at the same price they have been paying.

The board of trustees of the Orinda Union School District voted Monday night to allow District Superintendent Joseph Sheaff to study a new proposal with Kenneth Courtright, the district's insurance agent, and Deputy Attorney Charles Hemmings.

SHEAFF REPORTED that Courtright has found the possibility of better coverage than that given by the California Interscholastic Federation Protection Fund, which has been used in Orinda the last two years.

The insurance program, for which the district pays nothing and does no soliciting, is offered to parents for protection of students while on the school grounds or on their way to and from school.

EACH YEAR, the board must approve the program, and last year more than 350 parents took advantage of the plan.

Monday night's action allows Sheaff to study Courtright's new proposal and to check its legality with Hemmings, then put it into effect if it would increase the coverage of local students.

Other than the coverage offered to parents by C.I.F., the school district has no insurance for injuries to students on the school grounds.

Cash Stolen From Acalanes Office

Deputies at the sheriff's substation are investigating a burglary which occurred in the main office building of Acalanes High School last weekend.

According to the school employee who discovered the crime Monday morning, the building was entered by someone who forced his way through the west window, toyed briefly with the public address system and stole $25 and some keys from the cash register in the adult education office.

On August 3, 1942, Mildred Helen MacFee was commissioned a lieutenant in the navy to become the first woman officer of that service, later heading the Waves.

Gill Elected By Park Group To County Chairman

At its regular monthly meeting last Monday evening, the Contra Costa County Park Commission elected the following officers to serve for the next fiscal year:

James M. Gill was elected chairman by unanimous vote of the commission; Thomas M. Wilson, resident of Richmond, as vice chairman and Mrs. Howard J. Adams of Walnut Creek as corresponding secretary.

Chairman Gill is resident manager of the Ethyl corporation and a resident of Walnut Creek. He succeeds Ralfe D. Miller of Lafayette as the commission's chairman.

Miller has completed five years as head of this group. He received the thanks of the commission for this service and for his activities towards the establishment of a park system in Contra Costa County.

Thomas Wilson was also congratulated on his new position as head of recreation and parks for the City of Richmond.

Two new members were received into the commission at this meeting. They were Francis H. Pullen of Martinez, who replaced Dr. Graham of Concord and Ward Fagerberg of Pinole, who replaced Mrs. David Calfee of Richmond.

Murray Lehr of Lafayette and his associates have taken over the Canterbury Hotel, San Francisco, and will build a $6 million hotel in Sacramento.

Lehr, managing director of the Claremont, Berkeley, bought a long-term lease from the Canterbury Corporation. The leasehold sale involves about $2½ million.

Ray Van Tassell Charges He's 'Fall Guy' in Row

Ray Van Tassell of Alamo charged today that he is being made "the fall guy," in a hassle between two county departments.

At the same time, he said that public attention should be directed to things that are really important and vital to Contra Costa County: "the need for recreational outlets, the protection and preservation of natural resources, the establishment of parks, and getting a fair share of State and Federal funds for such projects."

HE ACCUSED county officials of "dragging their feet" on these matters.

"THE NEED for these projects will exist long after these petty attempts to damage my reputation are forgotten," he added.

Commenting on the now well-publicized stag party at Holy Ghost Hall in Saranap July 11, Van Tassell said that a final accounting shows that $1,326 profit was realized from ticket sales and games tables.

"This money—all of it—went to the legislative fund of the sportsmen's organizations sponsoring the affair," he stated.

Van Tassell noted that this is not the first time that his efforts to preserve and enhance the county's natural resources have been misinterpreted by county officials.

HE RECALLED that he went before the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors in April with a proposal that he be given the job of protecting and promoting the county's natural resources.

"The merits of this proposal were never examined," Van Tassell contended. "The idea was killed without fair consideration with the charge that I was asking for a 'political plum.' Why? Because I was campaign manager for a successful county official.

"Actually, I didn't care who got the job," he continued. "I even applauded the suggestion that the job be a civil service appointment, and I said that I had no objection to taking a competitive civil service examination.

"IN THE PAST week, considerable newspaper space has been devoted to the belated recognition by Contra Costa officials of the serious threat to the economic future of the county posed by salinity intrusion of the Delta region.

"Hastily prepared action to stave off the threatened strangulation of both agriculture and industry in the county has been sought by the Contra Costa County Water Agency, which has sent representatives on an emergency trip to Washington—at county expense—to try and obtain Federal action on the release of fresh water from dams on the Sacramento River and its tributaries.

"This is patchwork, ineffective and unsound county administration. Natural resources in Contra Costa County have been woefully neglected," he said.

VAN TASSELL noted that he has long been in the forefront in the fight to preserve the county's natural resources. He pointed out that last fall he testified in San Francisco before the Meyers interim subcommittee on Bay Water and Pollution. He also testified before the Assembly Committee on Natural Resources in favor of AB 1974, the anti-pollution bill, and was present when the bill was signed by Governor Edmund Brown.

He appeared before these bodies, he said, in his capacity as state water pollution coordinator for the Associated Sportsmen of California.

Van Tassell noted that he is co-chairman of the Bay Area Clean Waters Council and Vice Chairman of the Contra Costa Harbor Committee.

Van Tassell called attention to the fact that he was the only person from Contra Costa County who testified in Fresno July 21 at the hearing to set aside D 935 of the State Water Resources Board and permit more fresh water releases from Friant dam. This county and its agriculture and industry have a vital stake in this matter and should gain the City of Fresno in the action.

ACCORDING TO Van Tassell, it was in a large measure through his efforts—at his own expense—that an item was included in AB 800, the state finance bill, authorizing the expenditure of $200,000 for land acquisition and development of Frank's Tract on Bethel Island as a State Park and public recreation area. The money was originally ticketed for use in the expansion and improvement of Mt. Diablo State Park.

"When I heard that this money might be lost, I appeared before the Bethel Island Chamber of Commerce, alerted them to the fact that this money was likely to slip through their fingers, and suggested that efforts be made to have the sum transferred to the development of Frank's Tract.

"I then put the matter before the Associated Sportsmen. The association, together with the Contra Costa County Park Commission, requested the board of supervisors to ask Assemblyman Jerome Waldie to introduce legislation making this use of the money possible. The board approved this suggestion and Waldie introduced the legislation."

VAN TASSELL concluded: "I have, for years, been dedicated to conservation and natural resources. The objectives of California's sportsmen—cleaner water, better hunting, fishing and boating—are in the public interest. These aims and ideas are important. The stag party is not.

"Right now, there is no one in the county who is coordinating any over-all program for the conservation of our natural resources. I am interested in seeing this condition corrected. These aims have nothing whatsoever to do with gambling, vice or Sheriff Walt Young."

Court Can Demand

ly went on, the judge the holds a hearing on the matter and on the basis of that hearing — in open court—determines whether or not the witnesses should be ordered to testify before the grand jury.

If they are ordered to testify, the district attorney said, and still don't, they can be held in contempt of court.

ALTHOUGH THE hearing and filing of the petition are conducted in open court, the prosecutor pointed out that the actual testimony, if ordered, is still given in secret session before the grand jury.

Clarence Linn, assistant attorney general, who has attended all of the grand jury meetings on vice and gambling, said "The Grand jury cannot hold the witnesses in contempt of its own power."

HE INDICATED the witnesses were subpoenaed and were asked to testify, but that they "testified to a limited degree but did not discuss anything pertinent."

The witnesses are under call of their original subpoenaes, and bench warrants can be issued for their arrests if they flee the jurisdiction, according to Nejedly.

Shortly after the persons testified, Nejedly made the statement, "They gave me a feeling that they were not going to testify under any circumstances, including immunity."

Dramateurs' Production Opens at 8:30 Tonight

Voila! Samuel Taylor's "The Happy Time," a comedy of love, opens tonight, 8:30 p.m., at the Town Hall, Lafayette.

In this comedy of love you will find Maman (Rosemary McGough), a Scots Presbyterian lass, living in a French-Canadian household in Ottawa, busily protecting her young son, Bibi (Tony Woolf) from the influences of the charmingly delightful but unconventional qualities of the brothers Bonnard, Uncle Desmonde (Gene Ledbetter), Uncle Louis (Dominic Scortt) and Papa (Alan Axelson).

Others in the cast are Philip Stearns, Bert Miller, Kitty Winkworth, Ethel Appel, Michael Spencer, Dan Green and John Veltri.

"The Happy Time's" director is Carl Rasmussen and he has been assisted by Katie Genesy, Pete Morrissey, Betty Reynolds, Michael Spencer and Wilfred Scortt.

Of course, there are many, many more connected with this play, as with any play, and they are the "unsung heroes" donating their time and efforts to the backstage activities such as lights, sound, properties, et al.

AGAIN VOILA! If you wish an evening filled with "gaiete de coeur," then make a date with the Dramateurs' play, "The Happy Time," viewing dates being tonight, August 7 and also August 8, 14, 15, 21, 22, 28 and 29.

Reservations must be made and they can be had through Feg Stanislawsky, Hinks Book Department, TH 5-1100; Clarence Betz in Orinda, CL 4-4141 and also at Ben's 7 Arts Book Store in Walnut Creek, YE 5-3384.

Leis to Board Are Gift from Honolulu

Wayne Bailey, president of the Contra Costa Real Estate Board, announced recently the acceptance by that group of a large shipment of leis.

From the Honolulu board, the leis commemorate the local groups first anniversary at the Locust Street location.

The anniversary of their occupancy of the building is to be celebrated tomorrow.

A letter from Isabel Veach, executive secretary of the Honolulu board, anticipated the arrival of the flower gift.

Probe's Fate in Hands of Jurors

refused to testify. (See separate story).

Then, the investigation of the grand jury seemed to switch from isolated cases to an interrogation of Sheriff's personnel.

Ruth Rathke, chief administrative assistant to the sheriff, testified under subpoena for two hours; Harry Ramsay, undersheriff, was before the grand jury for an hour and a half; Carlson was behind the closed doors for nearly two hours, and Lieutenant Robert Fisher, chief of the patrol division, testified for one hour and a quarter.

ONE WITNESS, who has stumped newsmen and observers alike, is Police Chief Leigh Brilliant of Walnut Creek. No one seems to be able to determine why he appeared Tuesday, and he refuses to comment on anything.

Speculation on his testimony has been rampant, but nothing concrete has been offered.

Brilliant testified for 35 minutes and was silent when he came out.

Bill Price, investigator for the DA, then appeared with the mystery woman—a haggard, beaten woman with furs up around the lower part of her face, a hat and sun glasses. She went into the jury room, stayed 15 minutes and was whisked away hurriedly by Price to a waiting auto.

The mystery man then appeared from the corner of the hallway in the company of Price and entered the jury room through a judge's chambers. He testified 10 minutes and when finished came out of the room and literally leaped up the stairs and into Nejedly's office.

THE JURY stayed alone for a few moments and at 3 p.m. called Mrs. Rathke, who had been sitting with her son, who is about 20 years old.

The next movement in and around the courtroom was Mrs. Rathke's emergence at 4:20 p.m., at which time she announced that the jury was taking a 15-minute recess and she would resume the witness stand at that time.

During the recess, Nejedly made the following statement: "Two of the witnesses took the Fifth Amendment and we will take action to secure their testimony."

Linn said, "we will bring them into court to force their testimony through a court order under the threat of a contempt charge. The grand jury can't punish persons for contempt."

Nejedly stated, "We will have to offer them immunity from criminal prosecution. I have made an agreement with the grand jury not to divulge the names of these witnesses, and I am going to respect it."

THE JURY reconvened at 4:45, with Mrs. Rathke back on the stand, where she remained until 5:15 p.m.

Undersheriff Ramsay, loaded with a folder of what he said were "officers' training manuals," went in immediately and came out at 6:57 p.m.

When Mrs. Rathke left the jury room she said, "My parting instructions from the foreman of the grand jury were, 'Mrs. Rathke, you are under strict orders not to open your mouth'."

The evening session began at 8:30 p.m., with Carlson entering the jury room—he stayed until 10:20. Fisher then entered and came out at 11:30.

CARLSON, WHEN finished testifying, said, "The jury kept my little black notebook of all my activities during the period I have been chief of the vice detail (about four months).

They looked the book over and then asked questions about what was in it. Linn and Nejedly are doing most of the questioning—I've got nothing to hide."

Fisher's only statement was, "I am not at liberty to divulge my testimony before the grand jury."

At the end of the hearing, Nejedly said, "this is it as far as we are concerned—now it is entirely up to the grand jury. It will be at least two weeks before anything will come of the case.

"WE WILL start proceedings against the mystery witnesses, but I don't know how far we'll go. We can do without them—presumptions speak far more elegantly than words.

"I am thoroughly satisfied with the evidence before the grand jury. We all got an education. I don't know how calloused Mr. Linn is, but I think he got an education also.

"If the mystery witnesses flee the state, we'll issue a bench warrant for their arrest."

AT THE END of Tuesday's testimony Dunlap said, "we have not reached any conclusions. We will reconvene on this matter but I don't know when it will be. It may be in two weeks, but I don't think there's any possibility we'll take it up at our regular meeting.

"I don't know what our action will be. We will wait for the analysis and recommendations of the district attorney. He has to say whether or not he really has a case. We just stopped with the end of Lieutenant Fisher's testimony tonight, and we have had no opportunity to deliberate.

"We held this long hearing to try to clear this away. We want to get it finished," Dunlap explained.

THROUGHOUT Tuesday's session, 18 of the 19 grand jurors were present.

The grand jury has only had two regular meetings since it was organized July 1. There was an organizational meeting July 16 and there was a regular session yesterday on general county matters.

But, there have been four special sessions on vice and gaming. The first of these was July 27. This session lasted some three and one half hours. The following night, the jurors went through a four and one half hour stint and two days later met in an afternoon session for three more hours.

THE LONGEST and last special session on the matter came Tuesday with 10 hours of interrogation.

Young has claimed in a press statement there is no indication of organized vice or gambling in the county, but there will be personnel changes in his office.

(For complete text of Young's statement see separate story).

These changes are expected to be announced Monday or Tuesday.

DUNLAP SAYS the final recommendation for indictments will have to come from Nejedly and Nejedly states, the matter is now in the hands of the grand jury.

Those who have followed the grand jury proceedings have split into two camps: one claims there will be a "whitewash" and the entire matter will be "buried" forever. The others insist there will be indictments and a complete explanation to the public.

The final determination of what will happen to the 20 hours of testimony presented during the four hearings, now rests with the individual members of the grand jury.

Rathke-Ramsey Feud Complicated

cal reprisal" for her testimony before the Contra Costa Grand Jury.

Mrs. Rathke was subpoened Monday night by the grand jury. She had asserted she would not testify unless she was subpoened.

She said she informed Ramsey she would not be in for work on Tuesday as she did not feel well and was upset concerning the investigation.

SHE CLAIMS she came in to work Tuesday at 10:30 and went about her normal duties. She appeared before the county grand jury for over two hours that same afternoon.

Ramsey informed The Sun: "I never made any statement that there would be action against Mrs. Rathke."

Driver Dozes, Avoids Injury

Jeff D. Holland, 977 Oakland Avenue, owner and operator of the Yellow Cab Co. in Lafayette, escaped injury early Tuesday when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel of his cab and the vehicle ran into a dirt bank on St. Mary's Road.

Deputy Sheriffs L. G. Shepherd and Earle Clark reported they found Holland asleep in the vehicle, which was stuck in the dirt bank, at 4:30 a.m. Tuesday.

They said Holland was westbound on St. Mary's Road when he apparently dozed at the wheel and his auto crossed over the eastbound lane to the south side of the road and then struck a culvert and became imbedded in the bank.

The officers reported marks on the cab indicated it must have also sideswiped a fence or road post en route to the culvert.

Holland was not held, according to the deputies.

AAUW Changes Membership Eligibility

The American Association of University Women has announced that recipients of all degrees granted by an institution on their approved list are now eligible for membership.

This announcement, which is a major change in AAUW policy, means that many women in this area, who have not been able to join AAUW, may now do so.

In addition, the association has announced that College of Notre Dame, Belmont, Calif.; George Williams College, Chicago; Good Counsel College, White Plains, New York; State Teachers College, Salem, Mass.; University of Kansas City, Kansas, Mo.; Wisconsin State College, Eau Claire, Wisconsin, and Eastern Oregon College in LaGrande, Oregon, have been added to the list of approved colleges.

Local women holding baccalaureate degrees from AAUW approved schools are cordially invited to contact their local membership chairman for additional information.

The membership chairman of the Walnut Creek branch of AAUW is Mrs. Robert L. Grunder (YE 4-7515). The chairman of the Orinda branch is Mrs. John Goldeen (DRake 6-5572). Lafayette prospective members may call Mrs. Rudolfo Jacuzzi (AT 3-6136) for details.

Both branches are planning a series of events to acquaint prospective members with the function and scope of American Association of University Women pro-

Lafayette Boy Hurt in Crash

Ten-year-old Johnny Jacob, 3758 Sundale Road, is in the Peralto Hospital, Oakland, with a badly fractured leg suffered in a truck-bicycle accident on Mt. Diablo Blvd. Monday.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Johnny was riding his bicycle westbound on the wrong side of the street when he collided with a panel truck operated by Richard Bruce Stringer, 29, 3196 Acalanes Road, in front of Lafayette Rental and Hardware.

IT WAS THE second motor vehicle-bicycle collision on Mt. Diablo Blvd. in four days.

According to the patrol, Stringer was northbound across the thoroughfare from the rental establishment and was preparing to turn left when he felt the impact of the boy's bicycle.

Johnny was thrown from the bicycle and then was run over by the truck, witnesses said.

The highway patrol stated that although the boy had not been questioned at press time, no citations were contemplated.

Special Polio Drive Asked by National Group

The board of directors of the Contra Costa County Chapter of The National Foundation decided at their July meeting that the only way to solve the critical polio financial crisis is to hold a local emergency appeal of the New March of Dimes August 10 to 24.

This decision was announced by Philip Johnson, chapter chairman, who said that $40,000 would be sought in the special drive.

"We need your help now," the polio leader said. "Both our own March of Dimes fund and emergency aid funds at national headquarters are exhausted. All of the money raised in our emergency appeal will be used solely for polio patients in our county."

According to Johnson, the National Foundation chapter is faced with two choices: discontinue aid to patients or hold an emergency appeal. "Since there are polio patients who depend upon the March of Dimes for their very lives, it would be unthinkable to cut off financial aid to them," he said. "We know that the people of this county will not forget the polio victims of past years."

The polio official also issued a plea to anyone who has not had his three Salk shots to begin the series at once. "The polio care emergency we already have in this county," he said, "underscores the logic of getting polio protection now. We still have adults and children who have had no vaccine severely paralyzed this year—when it is unnecessary and could have been prevented."

Highway Patrol To Cite 'Tossers'

Motorists who toss lighted cigarets, cigars or matches out of their automobiles will be cited if observed by members of the California Highway Patrol, Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden declared today.

Crittenden urged all motorists to cooperate by always using their ash trays, but added that patrolmen will rigidly enforce the law that prohibits throwing of any lighted substance on any road or highway outside of a business or residential district.

"We already have had several disastrous forest fires this season and the State Division of Forestry warns that this is the most critical year we have had in a long time," the commissioner continued.

"A match or a smoke tossed from a car can touch off a blaze that could burn hundreds of acres of timber, destroy thousands of dollars worth of private property, and cause loss of human life.

"Our enforcement activity will not, however, be confined to mountain and forest areas. The law applies anywhere in California, and if we can educate the public not to throw lighted material from their cars anywhere they will be less likely to break the law in an area where great damage can be done."

A Message to All Deer Hunters

An Editorial

No one can take the responsibility to hunt, shoot, travel and camp safely but the individual hunter. Game wardens, rangers and other lawmen can't watch everybody.

You are the one who will benefit or suffer by the way you handle your responsibilities. This includes the sportsmanlike, safe conduct of other hunters.

TO SAY YOU are not your brother's keeper is not very valid, particularly when it comes to natural and recreational resources. If your brother starts a forest fire, it's just as damaging to your hunting area as it is to his. Similarly you are no less dead or hurt if he carelessly shoots you than if you shoot yourself.

How many times have you complained, "I wish I could have been a game warden, I'd have * * * *"? Well, what did you do? Did you take time to go to a telephone and report the violation?

Or did you wait until your next lodge or sportsmen's club meeting to complain about the lack of supervision by lawmen?

In 1958, there were 120 hunting casualties, about 65 per cent involving persons being shot by others. In nearly 75 per cent of these cases the victim was almost as much to blame as the shooter, because the victim did not insist that the other fellow handle his firearm safely.

THE SAME PRINCIPLES apply in cases of fire, and boating and automobile accidents.

As for fire, the coming hunting season will hold one of the greatest fire hazards in years. Extreme caution must be exercised if you want a place to hunt—this year, or in the future.

The last several years have been favorable to the growth of brush and grass. An unusually dry spring and summer have made that brush and grass extremely vulnerable to fire. What are you going to do about it?

Well, let's begin with your hunting trip preparations. A shovel and an ax should be part of your standard gear, to clear the campgrounds of inflammable undergrowth, paper, etc. Also, empty the ash trays in your car before you start and insist that everybody in the car use them. Have litter bags in your car, too.

WHEN YOU GET to the campsite, before you light your campfire or stove, clear a circle at least 10 feet in diameter of brush, weeds and grass. Cut brush stumps even with the ground to minimize the danger of falls and stubbed toes. Keep fires small, and have a bucket of water handy before you kindle your fire.

If you use a gasoline stove, fill the tank away from the stove so that fumes from spilled gasoline won't ignite when you light the stove. Put the stove on stones or logs if you haven't a camp table, so air can circulate beneath it and carry off accumulated fumes.

Now, you're ready for that long-anticipated first cup of coffee in the out-of-doors. But don't let your guard down. Watch the members of your party and keep harping on safe conduct until they get the point. And remember, set a good example yourself! Hunter SEE; hunter DO!

Alternate Location Sought By School Board Head

Highland Court, contended, however, that they do not care whether or not a school is located next door or across the street, but they don't think the proposed site is a good one.

Miller said, "We are now in an expanding, even an exploding school situation and money is dearer than ever. I question the validity of this site, financially — it has such a limited future."

AFTER MORE than half an hour of discussion about the Highland Court site, Gray pointed out that "The Stanford study, which has been perfectly right in its predictions up to now, recommended another site on the north side and one on the south side.

"We would appreciate it if someone could come up with a proposed school location on the south side which is as good or better than the one we are considering."

TRUSTEE HERBERT Waterman said the site also must be ten acres in size if a kindergarten through sixth grade is to be built, but he added the site may be smaller for a kindergarten through fourth grade unit.

Civil Defense Informed Action Told; Save Lives

By MIKE KIMBALL

"If we can't interest people in civil preparedness any other way we'll have to scare them."

And there's plenty to be scared about, according to Richard Bourke, assistant director of Civil Defense for the Walnut Creek area.

"In the event of a civil disaster the main responsibility for evacuation and the preservation of life will be on the individual resident's shoulder's," states Bourke.

"If the individual doesn't know what to do . . ."

THIS IS WHERE Civil Defense and its problems come into the picture. It is Bourke's job to make sure that "the individual (that's you) knows what to do."

"Our main problem in the event of, say, a bomb attack, would be what I call the willing dumb-bell. He means well but can really botch things up when he doesn't know what to do. In some cases no action at all is better than misinformed action."

Civil Defense prepares people to meet unexpected occurances armed with the knowledge of how to act, and act well.

THEY CAN'T force anyone to know how to save himself and others. And, what is worse, not very many people seem concerned. The chances of fire, flood, auto accidents of bomb attacks happening are collectively very strong, said Bourke.

"Someday everyone will meet a problem which will need the finger-tip knowledge of first aid fundamentals and Civil Defense training."

"But the fact remains that people's minds are like their hands. They use them enough and callouses develop," said Bourke.

"We live in an age of shock propaganda. And people can be shocked only so often. Pretty soon they stop caring, a light switches out and they just don't care any more."

EVERY WEDNESDAY evening Bourke holds forth at the city hall from 7:30 until 9, eager to dispense CD information.

No one comes.

You can.

He'll train you in first aid.

He'll tell you the evacuation plan for the Walnut Creek area.

He'll tell you if you can drink water from the tap in the case of a bomb attack.

And how to stock inexpensively your cupboard for immediate evacuation with enough food to last two weeks.

He will prepare you for any emergency, and shock you (even in your calloused state) with facts and probabilities of your confronting a life and death situation, when you won't know what to do.

IT TAKES TIME, and effort. You might miss a few fights on television. You will be able to think of a multitude of excuses for not preparing. You'll have to have interest, persistence—lots of Boy Scout-type attributes.

But he'll tell you how not to be a well-meaning, willing dumb bell.

Freeway Work At Early Hours Unacceptable

Freeway planning and construction is all right with most county residents—but not at 5:30 in the morning.

The sheriff's substation in Lafayette reported the receipt of two separate complaints this week of trucks and equipment of the Charles L. Harney Inc. construction firm of San Francisco being operated at that hour on the freeway extension in Pleasant Hill.

OFFICERS SAID the first complaint was made by Harry D. Jenkins, 2044 Sherman Drive, and the other Wednesday by James Morroney, 2056 Sherman Drive. Sherman Drive is adjacent to the freeway project, officers explained.

Representatives of the Harney firm, who were contacted regarding the complaints, promised officers that beginning today work on the project will begin at 6:30 a.m. and will continue until 10 p.m.

The contractors said the early hours were started because they are behind schedule on the project and want to catch up.

Officers told residents in the area that if the early morning disturbances continue, they might contact the district attorney's office regarding the possibility of a restraining order.

Heart Association Tells 'How to Beat the Heat'

How to cope with heat waves, strenuous summer sports and activities, and long tiring motor trips without health damage is a subject on which the Contra Costa County Heart Association offers advice.

The County Heart Association has compiled a list of suggestions for use of the general public, especially those over 30, as well as for heart patients, that will make summer weather and vacation activities easier on the health and on the heart.

FIRST IS A TIP about summer meals for the cook of the family. If the bread winner or home gard heat, he should be served plenty of moisture-laden vegetables and fruits. Digesting heavy meals puts ener works outside in the summer an added load on the heart, especially when it also has a tough cooling job to do. Light meals are more easily digested and save the body's energy for more important work.

Replace salt and water that is lost through perspiration. The body loses as much as a quart of water an hour during strenuous activity.

On the subject of "dress," you can beat the heat by wearing a ventilated, light-colored hat and lightweight, light-colored clothing that fits loosely. Frequent rest-breaks in the shade, if possible, is another way to ward off heat exhaustion.

THOSE OVER 30 who work at a esk job all week, are advised to ake long walks after dinner and o diet off excess poundage to look and feel better and to stay healthier longer.

The Heart Association advises that after-work hobbies and sports, whether it's working in the garden or getting in nine holes of golf, is good for the health as long as it's fun. When it stops being fun, the advice is to knock off and you'll feel better.

Vacationers are warned that the purpose of time off is to build you up—not wear you out. For those over 30, the Heart Association suggests:

1. Make moderate recreation and sports plans.

2. On a motor trip, don't drive too far, too fast, or for too long a stretch. Get a good night's sleep before starting. Take a break every hour or so while traveling.

3. If your doctor has placed you on a special diet, be sure to follow it, particularly when you are on the road.

4. Remember, that working 50 weeks in an office doesn't put you in training to climb Mt. Shasta. If you are planning an active vacation, get in training first

Episcopal

A dream for years, a possibility five months ago, a reality today. The Episcopal Church of the Resurrection is now serving the Pleasant Hill area and has been holding services twice each Sunday since July 5.

Preliminary investigation into the feasibility of starting this church was made in March of this year by a group of Pleasant Hill residents headed by Mrs. Donald Wilson, 2160 Ramona Drive.

Questioning of interested people in the district, done in the early spring, led to an organizational meeting on June 10, presided over by the Rt. Rev. Henry H. Shires, Suffragan Bishop of the Diocese of California.

At this gathering a Bishop's Committee of ten members was appointed to guide the activities of the new church. Serving on this committee are Richard Rogers, Senior Warden; Sydney Hazelton acting as Junior Warden; Mrs. Claude Dawkins, Clerk; Frank Pillsbury, Treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Neumann, Frank Preston, Stanley Hone, Donald Backlund, Allan Bartlett and Russell Wallin.

At present the church is conducting services in the banquet room of the Monument Bowl, 2265 Contra Costa Highway, Pleasant Hill. However, the Episcopal Diocese of California owns property in Pleasant Hill and the church intends to eventually build there.

Vicar of the church is the Rev. Richard Shackell. A graduate of the Episcopal Seminary in New Haven, Conn., he has recently served parishes in Willows and Novato, Calif.

Local Men Hunt Subs With Navy

Commander William Worden, commanding officer VS-873, 125 Lucinda Lane, Walnut Creek, signed the "plan of the day" prior to a sub hunting exercise off the coast of southern California.

In civilian life, Comander Worden is a civil engineer with the East Bay Municipal Utilities District.

On August 2 members of Naval Air Reserve Anti - Submarine Squadron VS-873 flew back to home base at Oakland Naval Air Station after completing two weeks of active duty at NAS North Island, San Diego.

Commander William T. Worden of 125 Lucinda Lane, Walnut Creek led the 85 officers and men on the successful training duty.

VS-873 is comprised entirely of civilians, known as weekend warriors, who spend one weekend each month on drills at NAS Oakland and 14 days a year learning the latest operating techniques of the fleet by working with them.

Their main function is to seek and destroy submarines and protect our shores from the enemy. The S2F Grumman Tracker, fully equipped with radar and sonar for detection, is the aircraft flown by VS-873 reservists.

Suit Filed in Dispute Over Trailer Court

Mrs. Josephine Vette, 2983 Cherry Lane, Walnut Creek has sued John V. and Edith R. Haak of 954 Risa Road, Lafayette, seeking cancellation of her offer to buy Riverview Trailer Court, West Pittsburg, as well as return of her $8,000 down payment.

Mrs. Vette made an offer to buy the property for $34,000 on April 17, 1959, her attorney, Thomas F. McBride of Concord said.

Her suit said she believed the property was in good condition and that immediate use and future development of the one-acre site on Willow Pass Road was not obstructed.

Mrs. Vette said she later discovered the property was crossed by right-of-ways for four oil company pipelines and that permanent deed restrictions affected the use of the property.

In addition, the suit said, major repairs must be made to the sewage system to meet Contra Costa County Health Department requirements for its continued use as a trailer court.

The suit named as co-defendants with the Haak's the Western Title Guarantee Co.

Before coming to Merritt for her three-year course in nursing, Miss Abbie was graduated from Las Lomas High School where she was president of the California Scholarship Federation as well as a member of the student council.

Mrs. Green was graduated from Acalanes High School where she was editor of the school paper, a member of the Spanish Honorary Society, the senior play and the Ski Club.

They're Making a Huge Splash All Over the Area

There hasn't been a failure yet!

No matter what kind of organization you're talking about, that's a pretty fine statement to make. We're talking about "community" swimming pools, and there are plenty of them around.

Groups of individuals — generally gathered in one specific area — have banded together all over the county to build, operate and enjoy pools for themselves, their families and their friends.

Such pools are the ideal answer to a major portion of our recreation problems. They allow people a place for contentment and relaxation with their chosen friends. Economically speaking, memberships are generally well within the financial range of the average Central Contra Costa family.

Why did we say there hasn't been a failure yet?

BECAUSE WE have yet to hear any serious or prolonged complaints about the operation or activities of any of these pools.

And we have yet to see a complaint lodged against one of them appear either on the sheriff's blotter or a police blotter.

Now, that's not a bad record, considering the number of pools in the area and the number of people who are members.

One reason for this, obviously, is that most of these pools operate under strict rules and regulations, such as no music, observance of certain hours of operation, and in some cases, a ban against food and/or liquor around the pool.

We have witnessed many instances of complaints being lodged against the establishment or construction of a given pool, but invariably these complaints have disappeared when the pool is constructed and in operation.

ONE REASON for this would appear to be that the pools increase the desirability of the neighborhood and the value of the homes in the area. This can be attested to by the fact that many of the organizations have waiting lists for membership.

It would seem, then, that such ventures are highly successful.

CERTAINLY THEY supplement the "public" pools, such as the large recreation department pools in Pleasant Hill and the school district pools in Lafayette and Walnut Creek.

So if you live in a neighborhood which does not yet have one of these community pools, and the opportunity to build one comes along, it might be well to think twice before coming forth with objections.

No troubles — no complaints from noise, dust or traffic, a higher valuation on your land and an increase in the desirability of the neighborhood in the eyes of prospective buyers.

This all adds up to a pretty fine picture attesting to the value of the community pool.

And if that isn't enough, consider this statement of Supervisor W. G. Buchanan:

"I would think the noise of children playing happily in a pool would gladden any person's heart. I think this would be a far better thing than to hear a parent sobbing over an injured child in the streets.

"If there were more swimming pools, our county would not be spending so much money investigating malicious mischief complaints and sending children to correctional institutions for crimes committed in the streets."

Fire! Did You Start It?

If there is anything a fireman hates it's a brush or grass fire, just ask one and you'll find out.

And one of the reasons firemen hate this kind of trouble is because most of the time it is completely unnecessary. Oh sure, sometimes a fire will be started by sun shining through the bottom of a Coke bottle, but most of the times they're started by the biggest menace of all—people!

We hate to suggest this, but you or your children might just be the next to start one of these fires. And even a small grass fire these days is DANGEROUS.

THIS HAS BEEN an exceptionally dry year and our hills are tinder dry. It doesn't take much to set flames racing along them at an unbelievable clip.

The problem is complicated by the fact that more and more homes are being built adjacent to unimproved land, and this land is generally covered with lovely, dry, brown grass.

Why might you or your children be the ones to start the next fire? Well, as the old adage goes, kids will be kids, and some of them aren't aware that matches are dangerous and can be deadly.

We know that it's awfully hard to keep constant track of active youngsters, but you can again warn your youngsters against playing with matches, and especially about the dangers of grass fires.

In fact, some leisurely afternoon you might take the kids down to the local fire house and let the firemen explain the matter. They'ld a lot rather do that than fight fires!

AND AS FOR YOU, and all of us, be careful of your cigarettes and your burning habits.

Burning laws have been established for your safety and protection. Obey these laws. It is easy enough to ignore the burning hours, which are set by your fire department, but they are set for a reason. These are the safe hours for open burning, and they should be obeyed.

Don't forget that you have to have a permit, too. No cost, just a safety check of your incinerator. It may be a bother at first, but it is to your advantage to comply with the law.

Much better a little inconvenience than a sad session with your insurance man after the fire.

Remember, nobody can stop these fires, or prevent them, but you. Don't be responsible for the next one.

The Staff Corner

Beginning Bowlers, Beware

By LARRY GLAZIER

The sport of bowling has experienced a resurgence in recent years, but it still hasn't become the game for us poor beginners.

"Bowl for fun — bowl for health," read all of the advertising gimmicks for the many new "bowling establishments" —we don't call them bowling alleys any longer, for some reason or other—which are flourishing in California and other parts of the nation, but are the come-ons true?

WHAT I'M DRIVING at is that, unless you're a league bowler, it's practically impossible to obtain a free lane any time after 7 p.m. on any weekday night.

Have you ever tried wandering into some of our more modern, million-dollar bowling estabs with your wife or best friend sometime after dinner on a Wednesday night, for example?

I have, and the results I obtained weren't exactly the happiest.

Assuming for a moment that most young people are able to keep themselves busy enough on weekends, particularly during the summer, and assuming also that some people prefer to spend relaxing, family-type Sunday evening, it follows that thoughts of an hour on the bowling lanes are more prevalent mid-week.

SO, THE YOUNG marrieds decide after dinner—say, about 7:30 p.m.—on any weekday night that the lure of the big, black ball hitting those poor innocent pins is too much.

After arranging for and picking up the babysitter and preparing for a nice, noisy evening in the air conditioned comfort of the Whatchamacallit Bowl, the eager couple drives into the overflowing parking lot.

Our friends, their hopes boosted by the thought that some of the automobile owners may be just using the bowl's restaurant or cocktail lounge, burst through the big glass doors with a certainty that, after many, many months, "We're going to bowl."

UP TO THE FRONT desk they wander, money in outreached fist, prepared to rent some shoes and proceed to the nearest available lane.

The first items to greet their eyes are dozens of multi-colored shirts proclaiming — in various lanes — "Jack's Liquors," "Joe's Bakery" and so forth.

Those lucky persons wearing the beautiful shirts are members of that ignominious lot called "league bowlers"—persons who bowl in competition from 7 to 10 almost every night of the week, and then have the energy to stick around for about three hours longer, making use of the lanes.

BACK TO OUR friends, tho', we find that the attendant at the desk has informed them it will be "at least an hour" before a non-league is free, and is handing them their number which reputedly will reserve their spot in line.

Discouraged by it all, and conscious of the fact that the babysitter's fee is steadily rising, the young couple departs, to return another night, when the courage is found.

Someday, when this situation confronts you, you may be stricken with my thought that some sort of an association of "110 score bowlers" should be formed, and us novices might take turns sitting in these bowling estabs, hour after hour, reserving lanes for other beginners.

Until then, may bowling continue as the top participant sport in the state and may all beginning bowlers manage to find at least one free weekday lane per month.

We Like It Here . . .

Up in Our Treehouse -- Of the August Sun . . .

By MARIE MONAHAN

WE'RE OUT on a Limb. Literally, Up a Tree!

Treehouse building being the prevailing project at our house about this time every summer, well, the hammering & howling is enough to drive any Mother to Milltowns.

Our whole Neck of the Woods is infested with industrious little demons banging & bawling ALL day!

We would just like to take off & leave them to their noisy activity, but—

Somebody might need a bandage for a bloody knee or drive a brad right through their big toe.

It sounds frightful, the noise they make—like a Torture Chamber in session. Oh Woe for the kiddy-carpenters!

FLOURISHING hammers & saws, boards & blocks (WHERE did they get THOSE?!?) the boys & girls sneak around scrounging nails.

Have you ever noticed how sneaky they can sneak in sneakers when they HAVE to?

The Nails disappear by the barrel. The ONLY consolation being that any board hammered with fifty (FIFTY!) nails ought to be very safe & solid & stay PUT. That is, if the children stay put! About fifty (FIFTY!) feet above ground!

We once borrowed a few nails from a neighbor. Then we borrowed a few more. It was a holiday weekend & the local stores were closed. Well, when we squared away, the "FEW" aluminum nails amounted to something like $26.43. We remember exactly. We were overwhelmed. As new homeowners, we had a LOT to learn.

There is a sign in the Treehouse. Usually it is something like "Eager Beavers." This year it is "Go Go Gophers" for the Little Guys.

The Bigger Boys are "Goo Goo Goofers."

The flag is unfurled. Usually a Skull & Bones carefully outlined in black crayon. On a dish towel.

The pillows, canteens & comic books are carted out & hauled up high into the house in the branches.

ONE little juvenile genius hoists a pulley into place. Then it's "Mother, oh, Muuuuuuuuther! Come & see . . ." We do. z

Make with the peanut butter, Mom. Send up the sandwiches & sodapop!

So it's out to see the bird's nest. Bring a Band-aid. Balm the bee bite & fill up the water bombs. Oooops, someone choking on a carrot? Say, cut it out, Sonny, that's not fair to your little sister!

Say, that treehouse looks good! If you can't lick 'em, well, it's better to join 'em!

If YOU come around calling, yell twice. Yoo-hoo, Yoo-hoo!

We're two landings up. (The coffeepot, the kiddies & me!)

But bring your OWN lunch. We're staying PUT! School vacations only HALF over & WE know when we're well off!

Muir Hospital Women Schedule Coming Events

John Muir Memorial Hospital's Auxiliary will hold its second regular meeting Wednesday, at 10 a.m., in the Real Estate Board room, 1343 Locust Street, Walnut Creek. Interested women are invited to attend.

Arrangements being made for an outstanding September event to launch the new auxiliary's social activities in support of John Muir Memorial Hospital are to be announced at the meeting.

Principal business will be discussion of bylaws, formation of branches, and their representation on the auxiliary executive council.

"Consideration will be given to any application for a branch chapter presented by a group of ten or more interested persons," said Mrs. Charles Hart, chairman of the advisory board temporarily carrying on executive council work.

Several branches already are forming, choosing their names from the names of places known and loved by John Muir. Such names as Awahnee, Mariposa, Sequoia, Sierra, Stickeen, Tenaya, Tioga, and Tuoloumne are mentioned as possibilities by Mrs. Strent Hanna of Alhambra Valley, wife of the famous Naturalist's grandson, when asked for suggestions.

Names suggested by others include Cascade, Mount Diablo, Tamalpias, and Alhambra Valley.

John Muir lived in Alhambra Valley and now lies there in the family's private cemetery, surrounded by trees planted by himself and his father-in-law, Dr. John Strentzel.

Dr. Strentzel, whose wife named Alhambra Valley, was one of this area's earliest medical doctors. He also was a conservationist who pioneered in planting many trees and shrubs now familiar in this area, an auxiliary member was told.

Membership chairman is Mrs. Carl Knecht, YE 5-5548. Other advisory council officers are Mrs. Charles Hart, president; Mrs. A. A. Nickel, vice president; Mrs. Owen L. Williams, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Louis G. Madsen, treasurer, and Mrs. Robert W. Hoyer, public relations.

Letters to The Editor

FLOOD VOTE FACTS

Dear Editor:

I would like to make a suggestion concerning letters-to-the-editor in your fine newspaper. When factual claims or innuendoes supposedly based on fact are quoted in letters, I suggest that you make an effort by note to perhaps clarify the issue as the facts actually are.

As an example, Mr. Robert Kahn, based on a correct statement that voters failed to pass Walnut Creek flood control bonds, claims that the voters therefore rejected all flood control programs for the watershed in any form whatsoever.

At least the voting record could have been quoted by your newspaper; both bond elections resulted in substantial majority votes in favor but lacked two-third majority.

But on the statements of Mr. Kahn:

1. A minority votes does not represent the desires of the majority of the voters in this country.

2. Defeat of a bond financing proposal rejects only the method of financing, not necessarily the need or plan for a project.

3. The primary leader of opposition to the flood control bonds opposed them on the basis that the Walnut Creek project should be a federal project carried out by the Corps of Engineers.

4. Rejection by the Walnut Creek area of a long-long-standing federal policy of federal aid to flood control will mean only one thing: loss of millions of dollars of tax money to such areas as Los Angeles, Alameda and the Mississippi.

5. A project cannot be rejected because of a supposed extra benefit to a few property owners when the general benefit will exceed to thousands. If this were the case no public improvements could be justified. There are assessments proceedings available to correct extreme inequities but their workability is difficult.

Perhaps Mr. Kahn would like to come up with a workable plan to raise the $1,400,000 local share in the project from these "several" people.

WORK EDUCATION

Dear Editor:

The excellent coverage given by The Sun to the Orinda Work Education Program is greatly appreciated by the Citizen's Advisory Committee.

The wholehearted cooperation of employers made the experience of each student a true sample of the work involved. The knowledge gained by the Mirmonte students who participated has proven to be most helpful in crystallizing their career plans.

Due to your generous support, the community was fully informed on this new and worthwhile program for the young people.

MRS. RICHARD LELAND

COMMUTER

Dear Editor:

Many thanks for the "Lucky Commuter" check and another year's subscription to The Sun.

We will certainly fully enjoy them both.

Here Is How Our Editors Covered the Vice Probe

By HERMAN SILVERMAN

The Sun is offering extensive coverage of the current gambling and vice investigation. In last week's paper, as well as today's, columns upon columns were devoted to this important subject. This coverage is the most extensive of any newspaper — daily or weekly.

I can say this with modesty because it is no feather in my cap. I am extremely proud of our fine young editors who make this possible. They are hard-working, devoted and intelligent. They don't take no for an answer. They dig. They are accurate. They know the ethics of journalism and follow the best traditions of courageous reporting.

Yes, I admit this sounds a bit slushy. Perhaps I am going off the deep end — but they deserve credit for work well done — not only this week but 52 weeks a year.

This vice investigation is an example. To make my point, I asked News Editor Bob Rapida to outline briefly some of the work they have done. Let me emphasize that the following memo is very sketchy and much has been left out. Here it is:

HERM:

Since the story first broke that John Nejedly, the district attorney, had called in state agents two weeks ago, things have been happening at a furious pace.

Here are just a few of the problems we have run into:

Wednesday, July 22 — Nejedly admitted he called in state agents and there would be a special meeting of the grand jury the following Monday.

Thursday, July 23 — Sheriff Walt Young denied he had ever received vice reports from the DA and was backing his men 100 per cent during the investigation of possible payoffs and "protected" gambling in the county.

Friday, July 24 — We (Dick Osborn, Sun associate editor) continued checking out Nejedly, Young, Undersheriff Harry Ramsay, Clarence Linn, assistant attorney general, and everybody and anybody who wanted to talk about the matter. Made our first contact with Grand Jury Foreman John Dunlap of Martinez.

The Weekend Was Pretty Quiet . . .

The weekend was pretty quiet and only Ray Van Tassell of Alamo, who set up the "smoker" at the Holy Ghost Hall, made a statement.

The weekend was also spent talking to a number of sheriff's deputies, who denied there were any payoffs in the department, but there were a number of leads supplied by them which had to be checked out by the time the grand jury met Monday night.

Monday, July 27 — Everybody was pretty close-mouthed when Dick and I went up to the grand jury meeting. Several other matters tied up the jury until 9:30 p.m., but then the vice and gambling matter got underway.

First to be called was Sheriff Young, a voluntary witness. He used a prepared statement and was in with the jurors for only a few minutes. Meanwhile we spoke with Ramsay, who blamed the inability of the sheriff's office to control vice on a lack of manpower.

Grand Jury Holds Long Sessions . .

I don't know how those grand jurors do it, but they only took one break during the four hours they were locked up in the supervisor's chambers in the Hall of Records.

Tuesday, July 28 — Most of the day was spent in checking the previous night's happenings and trying to find out what would happen during the second special session of the grand jury that night.

I went to Martinez to cover those proceedings and the witnesses which included "Packy" Lee, a Crockett tavern owner, Van Tassell and three agents of the state attorney general's office.

Marv Dickenson, a deputy sheriff, who testified that night had lots to say before he went into the grand jury session — when he came out he didn't know or say a thing — at least that's what he said.

Nejedly called in the press, (Gazette, Trib, Examiner, and us) who have had reporters covering every session and said he had at least 50 witneses who were willing to testify about gambling in the county. He commented wryly that most of them were wives.

Again the session lasted until midnight.

Just Checking Out Establishments

Wednesday, July 29 — We started checking out some of the establishments which were mentioned during the grand jury proceedings. We checked in person and by phone, some in Brentwood, Stockton, North Richmond, Lafayette to Martinez, and most places in between including the entire central county area.

We started receiving a number of "tips" on additional gambling spots. Persons who claimed they had information started getting in touch with us.

Here's just a sampling of what we heard:

"Have you checked on —— —— in the west end of the county? He's been in the rackets for years.

"What about —— ——? What's going on out there."

"Try —— and ——. Talk to Dick Cakebread, he'll tell everything."

As I said, these are just a few of the tips we got and we tried to check them out as best we could.

The Sheriff's Been Returning Fees!

We dipped into the sheriff's mileage and fees to see what was happening to them.

I talked to Howard McNamer, the county auditor, and Don Funk, his right-hand man, and every cent of the fees has been returned to the county by Young.

The most Young has been paid for his home telephone has been $6 in one month and the county has paid him $624 for the use of his personal car. Again, he has not taken one cent of the fees.

Cakebread is a deputy sheriff out on the east end of the county (Brentwood, Oakley, etc.).

He said he had reported his suspicions concerning a brothel on Balfour Road just east of Brentwood. But, was not permitted, according to a departmental regulation, to do anything about it, he said.

I'll get a little ahead of myself by saying we talked to Harry Ramsay about this and he said this was not the case: each man is ordered to arrest with due cause any person involved in vice or gambling.

Yet, a sheriff's statement was issued again Tuesday of this week that there would be a change in routine on the manner in which vice is reported. We're still working on this one and we'll have a story on it.

Thursday, July 30 — The third special session of the grand jury was this date. Larry Glazier, Sun news editor, went to the meeting, again in Martinez.

Larry phoned in the story and our top vice lead was changed at least four times before we went to press Thursday night.

It Just isn't Normal Procedure . . .

This may be normal procedure for a metropolitan daily, which has several editions a day, but not routine for a weekly newspaper.

Nejedly announced the grand jury would be meeting again on Tuesday in Martinez.

It was also announced that two mystery witnesses, whom the DA's investigators had not been able to find, would be served bench warrants. Later, the DA announced they had been served subpoena's and would appear at the Tuesday session.

Mondy afternoon was spent in Martinez speaking with Joe Connery, an analyst in the administrator's office, and J. P. McBrien, county administrator.

The rest of the day was spent with Ramsay; Walt Trawick, a sheriff's detective, who has jailed some pretty big gamblers during his 16 year stint on the force; Nejedly; and some short discussions with Vic Sauer, public work chief, and Eric Emory, personnel chief, on how the investigation was affecting the public's opinion of the county in general.

We've spoken with Chief Ron Orin of Concord, and Leigh Brilliant of Walnut Creek. Our latest tip was that Constable Charles Barkley of Brentwood was invelved in the Balfour Road "house."

The Operator Chases Him Down . .

After calling all over the countryside trying to find him, he said this was not the first time he had been accused of something. He volunteered the information that he had been accused of hauling a girl over to "French Peggy's," but that also was not true.

He said he had checked the house, but he had done it with Constable Joe Whitman of Oakley.

Thehouse is in the Oakley Judicial district, not Brentwood.

Barkley explained, "The somebody who told us he was on the take," might have seen Cakebread's car at the house when Cakebread was investigating. They both drive cars of the same year and model.

Tuesday afternoon Larry again went up to the grand jury meeting during the afternoon and we had again a number of witnesses to check out who would not give their names.

Ruth Rathke, chief of the civil division of the sheriff's office, testified for nearly two hours. She went to the session, "in fear of her life and her position." This is one we're staying right on top of and will give coverage to.

Tuesday night Larry and I went up to the grand jury meeting and we checked out the proceedings. Again, I can't understand how the grand jurors can go straight through with such sacrifice to personal business and interests.

On The Lighter Side

By CONNIE KIENY

One of the high-spots of summer vacation is the return of old friends and ex-neighbors who have had to move from our area for other parts of the state or country

Residents of Del Monte Court in Walnut Creek were delighted to see Charlie and Marylee Marrs and five children on their trip out here from Idaho Falls. They stayed at the Ray Cassani home and we hear the doors were literally ope nday and night as friends dropped in to visit.

Marylee thinks this might be the last trip with the children. Too much for the little ones, says Marylee, especially for Gordy, who developed the mumps on the day of their departure. Here's hoping he didn't leave anything behind other than pleasant memories.

Friends and school chums of Carolyn Shideler (formerly Carolyn Eckwall) welcomed her back to Lafayette for a vacation from San Jose with children Jeff, Linda and Jim. They are staying with the Edwin ...ckwalls of Mt. View Drive with Fairyland, Lake Merritt, San Francisco a part of the vacation plans.

A real farewell surprise party . . .

We missed the farewell party for Janis and Earle Romak last Saturday night but hear from their many friends that they were given a real send-off. The surprise party was held at the Walnut Creek home of Dick and Lorraine Olsen where the thirty guests enjoyed ping-pong, badminton, dancing to music provided by the Lloyd Lekse's, and a delicious dinner. Donna Kepler added to the beauty of the Olsen's patio not only by just being there but by arriving in a grogeous white embroidered cotton dress with a bouffant skirt. With her Nevada tan and pretty blonde hair she was really striking! Pert as ever was the guest of honor, Janis, in a stark white skirt and navy blue blouse. It's a real disappointment to have Janis and Earle leave Walnut Creek and we all hope they will enjoy their new home in Montclair.

The Jim Hopkins of Orinda have just returned from a vacation tour which included Tahoe, Lassen, Shasta and other stop-offs on the circuit. The junior Hopkins, Betty and Bob, didn't let their beautiful Orinda home stay idle while mom and dad were gone.

They moved in with their four children from San Lorenzo and made good use of the Hopkins' swimming pool. Betty and Bob are former Walnut Creek residents and it was nice to have them close again for a couple of weeks and to enjoy a swim party with them.

At last! It finally happened . . .

At last! After one uneventful visit to the hospital, another waiting period of 48 hours and much suspense, Douglas Raymond finally decided to become the first heir to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lawrence Aho of Walnut Creek. Douglas will receive more than his share of attention as the girst grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Raymond Aho, also Walnut Creek residents, and from aunt and uncle, Richard and Marilyn Huntington, who are motoring here from Missouri.

His maternal grandmother, Mrs. Wendall Huntington, too impatient to drive, flew from Missouri to be on hand for the big event. The newly-born is the first of the fourth generation of both the Aho and Huntington families. All four great-grandparents anxiously await their first glimpse of Douglas Raymond Aho.

When most girls go shopping for slacks, they buy SLACKS! But when Bill Williamson decided to lend a helping hand to wife Eloise, he got completely carried away and in place of slacks, purchased a Cerulean mink stole as a surprise gift for their 20th wedding anniversary. Are you in my league? We just celebrated our 14th wedding anniversary. I have slacks!

Barbecues, swim parties, bridge around the pool seem to be at their peak as the ring of the school bell draws closer. The Howard Burks' patio and pool have been providing summer pleasure to their friends, neighbors and relatives. Don't know which was more enjoyable the other evening, the swim in their beautiful heated pool or the delicious barbecued leg of lamb. I do know it was nice to see such good friends as Gloria and Pete Petersen and Betty and Lloyd Smith.

Of course, a mid-summer bridge party

A mid-summer bridge party was held at the John Zivic home with Maryann the gracious hostess. Lorrie Kenneally (claims she hasn't played bridge for years) tallied the most points and was first prize winner. Bernice O'Rourke unashamedly qualified as "boobie." Talking over forthcoming vacation plans were Nona Kruse, Bernice O'Rourke, Dolores Humm, Connie Sanford and Renata Rigney.

The Max W. Parkers of Lafayette have had guests from Seattle—Dick and Betty McClain and their three daughters, July, Melinda and Christie. After enjoying some of the wonders of California, the Parkers and McClains decided it was time for a no-kiddie weekend and left for Reno.

New Camp for Boy Scouts Will be Dedicated Sunday

Camp Victor Lindblad, Mt. Diablo Council's new camp in the redwoods of the Santa Cruz mountains, wil be dedicated at a special meeting of the council's executive board on Sunday acording to Justice A. F. Bray, council president.

Beginning with a luncheon program in the new dining hall, and including a tour of the areas, where scouts are camping, board members and guests will inspect the facilities of the 600 acre properties secured from Mr. and Mrs. Wallace J. S. Johnson of Berkeley.

SINCE 1952, when the first grant of 230 acres was made, the camp has been in the process of development.

In addition to the gift of land, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson employed men to cut roads, level camping areas, clear the water course of King's Creek for a boating area, built a concrete dam and swimming area.

In 1953 the Johnsons gave an additional 90 acres, and in 1957 another 100 acres and had electricity run into camp.

Additional land and ranch buildings were purchased by the council to make up the total acreage now owned.

LITERALLY hundreds of friends of scouting have volunteered their skills, materials, and money to develop the camp to its present status.

Dedication of the area is planned in honor of Victor L. Lindblad, scout executive emeritus, who was the scout executive from 1935 until last February, when Roger L. Bales was appointed as his sucessor.

CLOSELY associated with Lindblad has been Charles M. Wolfe, of Richmond, chairman of the camp development and properties committee, and Ford Carr, director of camping of Mt. Diablo Council.

Italian Study Group Formed At St. Mary's

Formation of a new organization, the Saint Mary's College Committee for the Advancement of the Study of the Italian Language, has been announced.

Invitations will soon be issued for the first function of the new group, scheduled for September 20 on the Moraga campus.

Included on the program will be tours of the campus conducted by members of the student body; a reception, and dinner.

The affair will close with entertainment featuring special Italian music.

Crippled Kids' City Park Camp Starts Soon

The Contra Costa County Crippled Children Society will sponsor a summer day camp for the kids August 17 through 21 and August 24 through 28.

It will be held at the Walnut Creek City Park from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Mrs. Jack E. Gillete, Jr., director of the camp announces that the two weeks will be spent in crafts, nature study, songs and music.

Entertainment being offered includes Temple the Magician, a puppet show, Chief Eagle Wing and clowns and movies.

Staffing the camp will be assistant Joanne Mirko, from the recreation department, assistant Jack E. Gillete, Jr., and eight members from the Clayton Valley 4-H Club.

Gill Elected By Park Group To County Chairman

At its regular monthly meeting last Monday evening, the Contra Costa County Park Commission elected the following officers to serve for the next fiscal year:

James M. Gill was elected chairman by unanimous vote of the commission; Thomas M. Wilson, resident of Richmond, as vice chairman and Mrs. Howard J. Adams of Walnut Creek as corresponding secretary.

Chairman Gill is resident manager of the Ethyl corporation and a resident of Walnut Creek. He succeeds Ralfe D. Miller of Lafayette as the commission's chairman.

Miller has completed five years as head of this group. He received the thanks of the commission for this service and for his activities towards the establishment of a park system in Contra Costa County.

Thomas Wilson was also congratulated on his new position as head of recreation and parks for the City of Richmond.

Two new members were received into the commission at this meeting. They were Francis H. Pullen of Martinez, who replaced Dr. Graham of Concord and Ward Fagerberg of Pinole, who replaced Mrs. David Calfee of Richmond.

At this meeting, consideration was given to the recommendation of the purchase of East Bay Municipal Utility District property near the new Briones Reservoir, Rod's Revokes...

Advantages of Duplicate Bridge Over Social Play

By ROD ERNST

"Why is duplicate bridge becoming so popular?" This question is probably in some of your minds after reading my previous columns. Perhaps one of the biggest advantages duplicate has over social bridge is competition.

The great majority of us enjoy friendly, rough-and-tumble competition. To sit down at the table and know that you can produce a winning score without holding the high cards is a great comfort. I'm certain you can all remember those nights when you held nothing above a 10-spot.

Secondly, duplicate bridge can be a large social asset. The easiest way to sharpen up your game is to play duplicate style bridge for a few months. (I might add here that once you play a few months, you may become as much of a fanatic as yours truly). You will be surprised at how quickly you will begin to outplay your rubber bridge cronies.

In addition, a ranking system has been established by the American Contract Bridge League who franchises most of the duplicate clubs in this country. The league now embraces close to 100,000 members scattered throughout some 1000 authorized clubs in this country and abroad. You are awarded so many "masterpoints" depending on how well you fare. More about this subject in my future columns.

Speaking of duplicate bridge, why not start this weekend. The Richmond Sectional is now in progress and will continue through Sunday evening. Afternoon sessions begin at 1:30 p.m. while evening sessions begin at 8 p.m. with the exception of Sunday where the starting times are 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. All events are being held at the Richmond Auditorium which is certainly one of the most spacious and well-appointed playing areas in this part of the country.

In addition to the championships held daily, there will also be secondary and junior championships. It is believed that upwards of 900 tables will be in play.

The Berkeley unit and Richmond Bridge Club, who are jointly sponsoring the event, have asked me to extend a cordial welcome to all bridge players to come in and play or kibitz. What better time to start? Hope to see many of you

Where you can play:

Walnut Creek Recreation Center, Tuesday evenings, 8 p.m.

Happy Valley Bridge Club, Happy Valley Inn, Lafayette, Thursday evenings, 8 p.m.

Danville Bridge Club, Charlotte Woods School, Monday evenings, 7:55 p.m.

Walnut Creek results, Tuesday, July 28:

Section A E-W 1. Kenneth Friedenbach, Pleasant Hill and Robert Kirby, Walnut Creek; 2. Jack Puckett, Max Witherbee, Concord; 3. Mrs. Henderson, Don Ingham, Concord.

Kallemeyn Kids Fund Hits $1700; Benefit Game Set

The fund for the "Kallemeyn Kids"—now in its final 10 days—already has passed the $1700 mark.

Concord Judge Louis McKannay, chairman of the account for the four young children of the highway patrolman who was fatally injured chasing motorcyclists in the Oakland hills, said contributions have been received from individuals in cities as distant as Eureka.

A SAN LEANDRO woman wrote with her gift:

"Dear Peggy, Shelley, Kevin and Stephen:

Even as young as you are, always remember that your Daddy lost his life in one of the finest services he could give. With God's help and your mother's love, you will grow up to be fine little girls and boys."

THE LIST includes checks from church congregations and home owner associations, two one-dollar bills which a Walnut Creek donor called her 'mite,' and gifts from firms.

A motorcycle club has offered its aid to Contra Costa Patrol Captain Russ Magill and there will be a benefit baseball game played between the Concord police and a highway patrol team.

ACCOUNTS have been opened in three banks—American Trust in Concord, Crocker Anglo in Walnut Creek and Bank of America, Pleasant Hill.

Basilio, Fullmer to Appear At Monument QB Meeting

Carmen Basilio and Gene Fullmer, who meet for the NBA world's middleweight championship at the Cow Palace Friday, August 28, will make a personal appearance at the monthly social meeting of the Concord Quarterback Club on August 20.

Officials of the San Francisco Boxing Club and Quarterback Club president, Herb Cooper, said the affair, open to the public, will be held in the banquet room of Monument Bowl in Pleasant Hill.

Tickets for the dinner are priced at $3.50 each and Tom Tancredy, general manager of Monument Bowl, said facilities will accommodate 275 persons.

The social hour will start at 6 p.m., program at 7, to be followed by dinner.

"The people of Contra Costa County are thrilled that this appearance is being made possible and we expect to sell out all the seats long before the function," said Cooper.

In conjunction with the appearance of Basilio and Fullmer, the management of Monument Bowl announces a contest to select a queen, who will act as official hostess.

Interested young ladies are asked to contact Tancredy at Monument Bowl for more information. Tickets for the dinner and the title bout will also be available there.

Dudley Looks Like Topper in BCRA Circuit With Driving Skill & Car

The Napa Flyer, Gene Dudley is, in my opinion, well on his way to becoming this year's Bay Cities Racing Association champion. Dudley won his fourth main event Saturday night at Contra Costa Speedway.

Dudley is top dog as far as driver know-how is concerned. And while it looks as if San Francisco's Julian Castro's car is slightly faster than Dudley's, Dudley will overcome that obstacle with piloting skill.

SANTA ROSA'S Johnny Franklin still holds a slim lead in the BCRA point standings.

Concord jet, Hugh Payne won his second trophy of the season, and also took the third heat away from Chet Thompson and Julian Castro, running second and third. Payne, who has never won a trophy until this year, is now going wild. He is the most improved driver on the track.

Mayor of Pleasant Hill, Jack Clayton took second place in the semi main, after bending his number 71's axles in a smashup in the second heat.

Peewee Waybright of Oakland was slightly injured when his car was smashed into the pit wall during the fourth heat. Waybright was taken to Kaiser Foundation Hospital.

"Hopalong" Herb Williams of Walnut Creek was back in action last week after much too long an absence. Williams is driving car number 66, and doing a beautiful job.

CHET STROCK of Concord took fourth place in the semi main, with his brand new number 50. After all the bugs are worked out, this car should really go.

Winners of all the events are as follows:

First heat: Kenny May of Concord; second heat: Carl Carr of San Francisco; third heat: Hugh Payne; fourth heat, Ray Travels of San Pablo; trophy: Hugh Payne; final heat: Julian Castro, San Francisco; semi main: Bill Maher, Vallejo; main event, Gene Dudley.

Don't forget the second big destruction derby! It will be held Wednesday, August 26. Anyone wishing an entry blank contact Frank Blado at the Speedway tomorrow night. A 25-lap main event will head the program tomorrow night. Time trials at 7:15, first race at 8 p.m.

Airman Breaks Walking Records

A new Pacific Association five-mile walk champion was crowned in Pleasant Hill during the PA championship meet Saturday.

In the process of setting a new five-mile mark, the new champ also broke the two-mile, three-mile, 5,000 meter and four-mile records.

THE SENSATIONAL new champion is Norman Rothe of Travis Air Force Base who recently placed second to the United States number one man in the Russia-United States meet when the two competed in an all-Air Force championship meet in Denver.

The third place winner for the five-mile event was Jim Seileny of Pleasant Hill High, a senior this fall. He is running—in this case walking—under the colors of the Pleasant Hill Track and Field Club.

How About Opposed Power For a Better Golf Game

How many of you golfers know what is meant by opposed power?

Take for instance your everyday life. The simple act of walking. The arm on the same side as the advancing foot swings backward as the foot goes forward—in teaching golf fundamentals opposed power takes on certain body requirements that serve to help ball distance.

On the back swing note how the right leg becomes firm and solid as you reach the top of the backward movement; then on the downward movement note how the left leg becomes firm and solid as the swinging movement passes it on its way to the finish of the entire fundamental, "the swing."

Another fine example of opposed power can be illustrated by a boy and girl in the process of throwing a stone. The boy intuitively pulls back vigorously the shoulder and arm opposite to the side from which he throws; the girl lets the opposite side "go" with the one from which she throws, with "empty" results.

Timing must be allied to opposed power, so get back into the same position as before, this time taking the club head back from the ball a few inches (higher still when you have more confidence) and by moving the bottom hand backwards from the top hand, which should still be static and centered above the ball.

Snap the right hand forward again, but this time notice that the right hand crosses the other. It is the second important lesson. The hands are the focal point of control.

Now, I want to draw your bottom hand up to your top hand and still try opposed power. You do not have the previous amount of freedom. You have nothing to send the ball so far? I know. While the explanation is that I want your hands together to work against the action of the body, legs, and feet, there still remains a certain amount of opposed power in the hands and arms. Think this over; and see if you can feel this opposition.

The medal play sweeps held at the Contra Costa July 30 wound up with the following scores:

Suburbia Scribblings

By MARIE MONAHAN

Lonesome Town

Where IS everybody? It's a Lonesome Town. At least half the populace must be away at the moment. Summer school out, it's the peak of the Pack Up & Go time!

GETTING AWAY from it all IS kind of silly. Esp. when we live in Orinda. But we all have to learn.

We have to swelter & sweat over roadmaps & the rustic life, we have to blister & burn at the beach, we have to seek Greener Pastures before we realize how Good We Have It here at home.

We like to get away ourselves. If we COULD, we'd do it in Jan. or Feb. For as nice as it is to anticipate a week's holiday now, we're always reluctant to leave, well, a little.

THIS is the Best Time of Year. The clime is close to ideal. Nature abounds right outside the door. And sometimes INSIDE, too. Like when a big brassy bluejay flies in by mistake & then panics at the picture window thinking he can fly thru.

We have all kinds of sports & activities at hand. The pools are pretty & pleasant to pass away the time. The summer menus are easy.

But we JUST HAVE to Get Out of Town. We hard-to-please ones, we're NEVER satisfied!

Some are Sifting Sand —

SIFTING SAND at Aptos Beach are the Gordon Frenches. The Alf Clements just returned from a long stay there last Sunday, all brown as berries. During their summer lease at the seashore, the Clements had among their houseguests, Madelynne & Cliff Benjamin who left their young boys home for THIS spree. The Benjamins were at Clear Lake earlier w/the Ward Huntingtons & Chuck Curriers.

Nancy & Paul Mouser, who did the Tuolumne stint earlier at the Berk. Camp w/their 3 boys, are setting up their sandsifting equipment on the beach at Stinson in Marin. Bill & Libby Brock's children have pretty well graduated from the sand-pail stuff but probably have fun burying their Mom & Dad in the dunes at another charming ocean spot Inverness, where the Brocks summer annually. The Jim Winfrees do their sand-castle designing at Sea Cliff every year.

GENE & Joan Garbarino spent 3 days w/their boys at Echo Lake Camp. They'll try Berk. Camp at Tuolumne later for the first time as will Lu & Jerry Grimes & their Lindy.

Do YOU send Postcards?

A late summer sojourn to the new State of Hawaii is planned by the Kenny & Betty Reynolds. Ditto the Wes Smiths who'll be celebrating a Big Anniversary!

The Chandler Barkelews will choose their campsites in the Sierras & the Don Woodcocks will have a family reunion in the scenic setting of Yosemite.

Here on business from Stamford, Conn., Burr Hupp, brother of Jim Hupp, was a wknd. visitor along w/the Hupps' son David who was up from the South. We saw Laurie Hupp talking to a handsome young man who looked enough like her to be her brother. We looked again & it WAS her brother.

The children of Bud & Pat Loughman are planning fun trips for their cousins who buzzed in from Marblehead, Mass. & from L.A.

Leight deMaeyer & his dghtrs. dined at the SFAirport last Sat. nite while waiting Dorie's incoming plane. She got an eyeful of the Eiffel & saw the other Europe sights for SIX weeks!

The new PETAR'S is posh! Dining there recently were the Robert Coxes & their Arizona houseguests. Petar's, formerly Tunnel Inn, has been completely refurbished in an elegant manner. Wall-to-wall carpeting for wall-to-wall people?

Which brings us to Jay Bedsworth who is now Maitre De at the Nevada Lodge, alias CalNeva.

Trying to make up her mind between TWO houses in Tahoe City is Marge Geyer whose hubby Jack is PR man for the '60 Olympics. (He's on leave, by the way, from the LA Times where he is a columnist!) Marge has been eeny-meeny-moing between two homes, one of which they'll move into w/their 4 handsome sprouts as soon as school starts in September. They'll be missed!

Cruising in from a vacation at Carnelian Bay, Tahoe were the Joe Downses who stopped to shop, that is, Jean did, while Joe contented himself w/an icecream cone in the top-down car!

The Tom Wilcoxes took their Thailand guests to "My Fair Lady" among other things. . . . A foursome in the audience for the "Great Waltz" at Woodminster were the Jack & Merle Saunders & the Joe Eldridges. Also the Merrill Olsens.

Over the wknd. the Frank Newmans were in the audience for "Lost in the Stars" presented by the Festival Theater folk at Berk. Little Theatre. Tkts. at door tonite, tomorrow & Sunday.

Locally, "The Happy Time" opes tonight at Laf. Town Hall—Dramateurs—do for 4 wks. running!

St. Mary's Road Work Delayed Until Spring

By LARRY GLAZIER

The proposed reconstruction and widening of St. Mary's Road, between Moraga and Glenside Drive, has been postponed until at least next spring, it was learned this week.

Meanwhile, it was announced by Supervisor Mel Nielsen that all interested persons are invited to attend a public hearing on the project, to be held at the Stanley School at 8 p.m. Thursday, August 6.

MARVIN WOLF of the design staff of the County Public Works Department said two major factors—determination of rights-of-way and scheduling of public utilities—forced delay of the project which was to have begun immediately.

Representatives of the County Public Works Department will attend the meeting to explain the proposed project, particularly in relation to its effect on adjacent properties, Wolf reported.

He explained right-of-way problems have occurred because "The public doesn't realize where the county right-of-way line is."

PRELIMINARY study of the St. Mary's Road project revealed, he added, that much of the proposed construction is within the county's 60-foot right-of-way.

Wolf said, however, that some private property will be involved and will have to be moved.

The county, he continued, cannot pay to have that private property moved, and it is hoped that in this period, when plans for the reconstruction are dormant, the owners will move their property.

The county will study and decide each property owner's case individually and on its own merits, Wolf stated.

Norman Webb New Owner Of Mobil Orinda Station

The new owner-operator of the Mobil Orinda service station at 25 Orinda Way is Norman Webb, who served five years as an assistant manager for Standard Stations, Inc.

Webb announced that the station will be open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. daily and will offer free car washes with lubrications and oil changes, free pickup and delivery service and free roadside service.

IN ADDITION, the new owner said, the station will give Blue Chip Stamps.

An Army veteran who served in Korea for one year, Webb said he decided to open a business in Orinda because of the "nice people."

He has an interesting background, having been a professional trumpet player for seven years.

Webb performed with various circus bands, including the Merle Evans Band of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus. He also played with the Harry James Orchestra for a short time.

The new service station proprietor still maintains an Oakland residence with his wife, Doreen, and their two sons, Raymond, 5, and Gary, six months.

Bill Polk Jets To Europe Soon

Many bon voyage parties are now being given for Bill Polk, manager of the Central Valley National Bank of Orinda, who jets to Europe August 29.

A large dinner party was given last week at the Fleur de Lis in San Anselmo with Mrs. Helen Estes the hostess.

Another cocktail and dinner party will be given August 19 at the Marina home of the Johnny Johnsons, Jr. with San Francisco friends. Bill will attend a convention in Cannes of Rotary International.

He also plans to visit the Scandinavian countries, Switzerland, Italy and Spain before returning in October.

Mrs. Polk remains in Orinda to take care of her customers at Edy's of Orinda and says she will "settle for a pink Thunderbird and South America next year."

Heart Association Helps Patients with Diet Plans

Many services for heart patients and others who need help with diet and work simplification are provided by the Contra Costa County Heart Association on a doctor's referral, according to Dr. Harold Robinson, chairman of the special diets committee.

SERVICES include diet material listing foods according to sodium content, lists of stores where sodium - restricted foods are available, sodium - restricted recipes, low total fat menu plans and low saturated fat menu plans.

In addition there is a consultation service by a trained dietitian, who is available for home consultations, by appointment.

"MANY TIMES a patient, who may be a cardiac or is handicapped from some other cause, may be told by his doctor to 'take it easy' and reduce his work load.

"This patient may be helped by instruction in work simplificatin in the home, or if he is a wage-earner, by consultation with the Heart Association work evaluation unit," Dr. Robinson said.

The unit, he explained, is composed of a team of doctors and vocational counselor - social service worker who determines, through testing and interviews, how heavy a work-load the patient can carry.

They will further assist in vocational placement, if indicated.

THE HOMEMAKER may need to be shown how to perform necessary household tasks in an efficient and energy-conserving manner consistent with her abilities.

In these instances, the physician may recommend instruction in work simplification in the home, Dr. Robinson pointed out.

Home consultation in work simplification and nutrition is given by a public health department nurse, who reports back to the personal physician.

Arrangements for this service have been worked out with the county health department and with the agricultural extension service, which serves as a consultant service to the nurses and provide additional in - service training for the Public Health Nursing staff.

"It is the policy of the association to provide patient services on a doctor's referral, since the organization does not prescribe treatment," Dr. Robinson said.

AS A REMINDER to county physicians of services available through the County Heart Association, the special diet committee has provided doctors with referral forms, modeled after prescription blanks, listing services available.

The attending physician fills out the form, indicating services requested for his patient who presents it to the association for action.

DR. ROBINSON expressed the hope that busy county physicians will continue to avail themselves of these services to benefit heart patients and others on restricted diets or work loads necessitated by illness or other handicaps.

Serving on Dr. Robinson's committee are Mrs. Iris M. Crump, Pleasant Hill; Dr. Mary L. Eilert and Frances Miles, Walnut Creek; Dr. Glen W. Kent, Mrs. Helen Torbet, and Mrs. Juanita DeWeerd, Martinez; Mrs. Elizabeth Christeler, San Pablo; and Mrs. Fred Wickstron, Pittsburg.

Begins Religious Laymen's School

A new adventure in adult Christian education is to be launched in September.

Bay Area church leaders and the heads of four seminaries in Berkeley and San Anselmo have joined forces to organize a Laymen's School of Religion.

Classes will be held Monday and Thursday mornings, afternoons and evenings. Each class will meet once a wek for two hours. The faculty is composed of professors from the various Bay Area seminaries and selected pastors.

The Rev. Muriel James of Lafayette is the Dean of the laymen's school of religion. It was her idea and persistence that brought the school into being.

A native of Berkeley, she received her B.A. degree from the University of California and her B.D. from the Church of Divinity School of the Pacific.

She also studied at Pacific School of Religion, Berkeley Baptist Divinity School and the San Francisco Theological Seminary at San Anselmo. It is natural that Mrs. James invited and received encouragement from these four seminaries when she proposed the plan for the school of religion.

Mrs. James, an ordained Congregational minister, has been director of education at the Montclair Presbyterian Church and Minister of Education at Orinda Community Church. She has numerous responsibilities in various councils of churches.

For the past two years she has been working on her doctorate in adult education at the University of California.

VACATIONS BY CAR

The Dramateurs are presenting, "The Happy Time," by Samuel Taylor, starting tonight at Town Hall.

The proceeds of the breakfast will go towards the Daughters of the Nile Orthopedic Fund for patients at Shriners' Hospitals for Crippled Children.

Serving will start at 10 a.m. and tickets may be purchased by calling or contacting Mrs. H. E. Page, 1661 Terrace Way, Walnut Creek, telephone YEllowstone 4-3022.

HIBISCUS

California gardeners are so used to neglecting hibiscus that few of them realize how much better their old favorites do with some regular attention.

Being tropical, they prefer frequent water and are definitely more lush when they get it.

Lafayette Boy Hurt in Crash

Ten-year-old Johnny Jacob, 3758 Sundale Road, is in the Peralto Hospital, Oakland, with a badly fractured leg suffered in a truck-bicycle accident on Mt. Diablo Blvd. Monday.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Johnny was riding his bicycle westbound on the wrong side of the street when he collided with a panel truck operated by Richard Bruce Stringer, 29, 3196 Acalanes Road, in front of Lafayette Rental and Hardware.

IT WAS THE second motor vehicle-bicycle collision on Mt. Diablo Blvd. in four days.

According to the patrol, Stringer was northbound across the thoroughfare from the rental establishment and was preparing to turn left when he felt the impact of the boy's bicycle.

Johnny was thrown from the bicycle and then was run over by the truck, witnesses said.

The highway patrol stated that although the boy had not been questioned at press time, no citations were contemplated.

We've got Bob Rush, a photographer; we've had plenty of hot weather, and eggs are not too hard to come by. However, Bob rebelled and cooked his egg in a frying pan, then turned the project over to his children to complete. Take another look at the picture. Your Garden

Back From Vacation? -- Look at Garden Neglect!

To return from vacation is often to meet with a rude awakening. The mark of neglect is everywhere evident—in the frayed dryness of your lawn, the droopiness of a bed of annuals or in the faded blooms that have gone to seed on your roses.

When you come right down to it, only the weeds seem to thrive.

IT SOUNDS awful and it is. But after the first shock, a second appraisal will show that the trouble is largely superficial and easily remedied.

Cutting, trimming and watering will do wonders for the lawn, and a feeding will green it up in a matter of days. Cutting back bedraggled roses and feeding them will prepare them for late summer and fall bloom.

Uprooting faded annuals and spading the beds will leave only some weeding to bring things back to normal.

BUT AFTER this is done, there is still the need for something fresh—for new color to brighten your garden bare spots. And here is where you look for the nearest sign of the California Association of Nurserymen.

Quickest and brightest color will come, naturally, in the many pot and container-grown plants which nurserymen offer already in bloom. Standouts are the chrysanthemums, which probably offer the biggest splashes of color for your money. Also, pots of tuberous begonias in full bloom are inexpensive and showy. What's more, they are long-term investments.

Sink either of these in the ground where bare spots are obvious, or use them as container plants on the porch or terrace.

MANY ANNUALS will start to show color in no time after you set them out in the garden. Marigolds, for instance, are often in bloom in the nursery flats from which you buy them.

And the fluffy blue of ageratum is evident wherever you visit a nursery these days.

The multi-colors of petunias and the blazing red of scarlet salvia lend their cheer to the garden in distress.

DON'T BE content with only these. A tour of the nursery will offer many ideas for quick color, such as fuchsias, marguerites and perennial asters. Moreover, such a tour will lift you as well as your garden out of the post-vacation slump.

WILD GEESE

Wild geese live longer than any of our other game birds, reports the National Automobile Club. They have been known to live to be 70 years old.

FLYING SQUIRRELS

The flying squirrel does not fly, but glides, according to the National Automobile Club. Glides of up to 125 feet have been recorded.

Freesias and Other Bulbs To Go In Soon

Here are things to do in your garden this week:

Freesias and other cape bulbs will be available for planting later this month and next. The sooner they go in, the better.

When cutting dahlias for display indoors, pound the bases of the stems with a hammer hard enough to crush them. This aids water absorption.

Take only short stems when cutting tuberous begonias and let the remainder of the stem stay on the plant until it falls naturally. This prevents possible rot.

Perennials such as delphinium can still be sown for bloom next spring or summer. Pansies, winter stocks, snapdragons and cineraria can be seeded for cool season color.

Prepare the seedbed for that lawn you plan to sow next month. Ask your nurseryman about a compound that will eliminate weeds and weed seeds from the area to be planted.

CONTROLLED

Did you know that the speed of the windshield wiper can be regulated? National Automobile Club points out that if the wiper is running needlessly fast, and usually noisily under such circumstances, a few turns on the control button in a clockwise direction will reduce the wiper's speed.

Nielsen Attends County Officials' Meet in Capitol

Mel F. Nielsen, Supervisor, Contra Costa County, 3376 Ridge Road, Lafayette, was one of 2000 delegates and guests attending the 23rd annual conference of the National Association of County Officials, which got under way here July 25.

At the opening general session he heard Michigan's Governor G. Mennen Williams speak on the future role of county government. At the same session, Arthur S. Flemming, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare spoke on "Counties and National Health and Welfare Problems." The President of the United States greeted the assembly from Washington via telephone relay.

The meeting, one of the largest national gatherings on local government ever held, attracted county leaders from every state. The theme was "The Rebirth of the American County." Commissioner Wally G. Dunham of Forsyth County, North Carolina, in keynoting the meeting cited the tremendous strides counties have already made in adjusting to an era of rapid urbanization.

During the four-day conference the delegates heard such other outstanding speakers as Senator Albert Gore (D-Tenn); Congressman Robert A. Everett, (D-Tenn); Federal Highway Administrator Bertram B. Tallamy; Governor William G. Stratton of Illinois; Lt. Governor Nigh of Oklahoma, and Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers.

A full program of panels, affiliated meetings, social activities and business sessions was also included. The meeting lasted through July 29.

Orindan Competes In Golf Tourney

Army Chief Warrant Officer Hans H. Mehner recently competed in the Southern Area Command open golf championship playoffs in Kornwestheim, Germany.

He is the husband of Valda Mehner, 68 Acacia Drive, and the son of Mrs. Hermine Mehner, 95 Acacia Drive.

Mehner is assigned to the 9th Military Police Detachment in Furth. He has been in the Army since 1942 and in Germany the last 14 months.

PREVENTION OF FIRES is the best policy, according to Lafayette Fire Marshal Shirley Peaks, who is shown checking one of the many dry brush fields in the area. Because of the lack of rain in the entire state, the danger of brush fires has increased, and fire officials urged citizens to take extra precautions with lighted cigarettes or discarded matches.—Sun photo by Dave Ogden.

ONE OF THE brush fire hazards in the Orinda area is pointed out to Capt. Jack Kiely (left) by Insp. Gene Devanny as the Orinda Fire Department continues its special prevention project during the dry season. Brush fields are extremely susceptible to fires caused by thrown cigarettes or matches, and the resultant fires often threaten lives and property.

Explorer Scouts Retrace Pioneers' Routes

Modern-day explorers of Explorer Post 300, of Orinda, saw the same sights and experienced many of the same thrills of exploration as did Major Powell and other early-day pioneers, as they floated down the Colorado River for six days through Glen Canyon from Hite, Utah, to Kane Creek, in Arizona near the state line.

GRETCHEN BAR, Hole-in-the-Rock, Aztec Canyon, Rainbow Bridge, Moqui Indian cliff dwellings in hidden canyons, and ancient pictographs were some of these sights.

Hole-in-the-Rock, where the explorers camped the third night of their trip, was the scene of much hardship as 250 early Mormon pioneers, with their wives and children, worked for several months carving out a road down through this crack in the cliff in order to take their teams, 26 wagons, and many head of cattle from the high mesa to the river for a crossing, as they moved from near St. George to establish new settlements in the San Juan country near the present site of Bluff, Utah.

Marks of the wheel hubs are seen to this day in the narrow defile, which at places is such that a man standing in the middle can touch both cliffs at once. One who has climbed this slot, as did some of the more ambitious explorers, can appreciate and realize the great task performed by those pioneers.

MUSIC TEMPLE was named by Major Powell after his men, tired and hungry, had sought refuge in the natural amphitheater. While resting, one of them began to sing. The acoustics were wonderful; the echoes intrigued the men, and as they joined in the singing they forgot their homesickness.

The major named the place well when he called it Music Temple. There's a cool pool of crystal water at the base of vine-covered walls, and a soft, sandy beach opposite. Many of the major's crew carved their names in the soft sandstone walls of the temple, and there, on this trip, they were read by the Orinda Explorers.

Rainbow Bridge, the mightiest natural arch of this world, causes those who gaze upon it to stand in awe and wonder.

The scribbled dimensions under the span tell its story: 309 feet high — more than sufficient for the capitol building of our nation to be placed beneath, with room to spare between the spire of the dome and the bottom of the bridge span.

THE ONLY natural bridge known with an arched top, Rainbow Bridge was discovered only 50 years ago, on August 14, 1909. It is located in the most inaccessible region of the United States, and the explorers visited it after a six mile hike up Aztec Creek from the river.

The only other way to reach it from civilization is over a 30-mile trail by mule-back or on foot.

Crossing - of - the - Fathers, the place where the explorers left the river, is where Father Escalante and his party of early-day Spanish explorers crossed on their long trek back to New Mexico, after spending two weeks hunting for a way to get down to the river from the plateau above. And this was after they had been told of the location of the possible crossing by the Indians.

The numerous side canyons and precipitous cliffs make almost impossible any sort of travel in this country except down the river. Modern - day bulldozers, however, have carved out a truck trail to the river at this point now, in connection with the building of the huge dam just above Lee's Ferry.

CAMPFIRE programs each evening were rich in stories of the Indians and early "river rats," as told by Malcolm B. Ellingson.

"Mac" has been guide and director of these river trips for several years now, having started as a leader on one of the expeditions sponsored by Salt Lake Boy Scout Council in 1948 under the supervision of John S. Youmans, who is now director of program in Mt. Diablo Council.

For the 25 members of Post 300's party, which included Norman S. Buell, Mt. Diablo Council Commissioner; T. G. Cullen, post advisor; and Mac Ellingson, the director; this was a thrilling and never-to-be-forgotten experience.

OTHER ADULTS were John Rinne and Thomas Mika.

The explorers included Tom Hutton, Chris Felchlin, Rick Bowles, Steve Buell, Rich Anderson, Bill Brown, Ron Brown, Sandy Corbett, Rick Gallagher, Mike Eaton, John Satterthwaite, Gregg DeWitt, Jack Gilbert, John Rinne Jr., Steve Smith, John Cooper, Charley Pfeifer, and Richard Haefele.

Two explorers from Salt Lake Council were in the party, Claire and Bob Quist.

Wind and heat caused the greatest discomfort on the river trip. After removing as many clothes as the law and decency allows, the explorers found it better to wear a shirt, and then to have a buddy pour water over the back, for evaporative cooling.

At times, though, the wet shirts became so hot that they had to be wet down again before they became dry.

On one occasion, near Escalante Creek, they found the water in the back eddies too hot to get into for a swim.

A trip to the site of the new Glen Canyon Dam, above Lee's Ferry, and a drive across the new bridge was the last experience the explorer post had before leaving

Suburban Bible Church Forms Prayer Group

Recently several members and friends of The Suburban Bible Church have united in a Fellowship of Prayer.

This special ministry of the church is for the express purpose of encouraging a spirit of prayer and intercession among the residents of our community and is open to all who might desire to participate regardless of denominational background.

THIS PRAYER GROUP will remember in prayer special requests and needs as they are presented to them, and the residents of our county are invited to contact the group if they have some special need for which they would appreciate prayer.

All requests will be held in strict confidence and will be shared only with those who are taking part in this Fellowship of Prayer.

Anyone with a special need for which they desire prayer is asked to call either YE 5-7287 or AT 3-6315.

THIS GROUP BELIEVES that such a ministry of prayer can be of great benefit to many people, especially in view of the scriptural promises regarding the efficacy of united prayer.

Periodic prayer retreats are also planned by the group and anyone interested in participating in this effort is invited to call them at the above numbers.

Young People To Present Fashion Show

Orinda Park Pool will be the setting for the pool's youth group to hold its second fashion show next Friday, August 14.

Last year the young people bought a stereophonic record player with proceeds from the event.

This year the youth group will buy records for the player.

Models will display smart back-to-school clothing from Ogden's Shop.

Models will range in age from seven to the teen years.

Be Chased! Run A Sun Class Ad

Selling your old furniture, cars, and appliances is The Sun's classified section's business, and we're pretty pleased at the results our advertisers get.

One woman, who shall remain nameless, phoned last week to complain that she couldn't get her housework done because of the response to her ad.

Mrs. H. M. Hays put in an appeal to sell a whole room group because she was moving. To judge from the calls she received the next owners of her house are going to be answering calls for some time.

Pat Little, 13 White Oak Road, Lafayette sold her western saddle in a flash for $65. The ad only cost $1.60.

It's such a small investment that we can't understand why more people don't take advantage of the Sun classified section.

For a paltry $1.60 we'll run your 14 word ad in The Sun Shopping News, the Walnut Creek Sun, Lafayette Sun, Pleasant Hill Sun and the Orinda Sun.

Women Voters to Assist Absentees

The national League of Women Voters, of which the Concord-Diablo Valley League is a branch, is undertaking a project to assist men and women in the armed services in casting an informed absentee vote in elections.

The effort this year is directed to local and state elections, and next year will apply also to congressional elections.

Several months ago a group of Defense Department officials consulted the league to see if it knew of any way in which factual nonpartisan information might be supplied to armed forces personnel upon request.

The Defense Department is well equipped to supply all the necessary information on the mechanics of absentee voting, but unable to provide factual information on local, state, and congressional candidates and issues.

The league through its local and state leagues will make available, upon request, nonpartisan information on candidates and ballot issues.

Servicemen and women may make their requests through families or friends back home, or they may write directly to the local league if there is one in their home town, otherwise to the state league.

Addresses of state leagues will be placed on bulletin boards at military establishments.

Serving the communities of Concord, Pleasant Hill, Walnut Creek, Alamo, Danville, Lafayette, and Orinda is the Concord-Diablo Valley League. The president is Mrs. William Ross at Yellowstone 5-1766. Voters service chairman is Mrs. A. S. Hartanov at Clifford 4-3337.

Toys Featured At Therapy Shop

This weekend the Therapy Thrift Shop, benefit project for the Mount Diablo Therapy Center located at 1547 East Street, Walnut Creek, will offer a wide variety of toys.

It is the wise shopper who avails herself of this opportunity to pick up birthday and Christmas gifts for the small fry.

Each day there will be new merchandise added to the "special feature table" as well as in all other departments.

Volunteers to assist customers in the shop Thursday will be chairman, Mrs. George Hansen, Mrs. William F. Ames Jr., Mrs. Thomas Tryon and Mrs. H. W. Gentry.

Linnet members on duty Friday are Mrs. Elwood Laws, chairman, Mrs. John Lar Rieu and Mrs. Frank Forsburg.

The Mmes. Paul Cortese, Harold Stewart and Richard Hubbard of the Junior Linnet's will be in charge of sales on Saturday.

GERANIUMS

The common geranium is one of our best pot plants in California, but you'd be surprised at the number of people who don't know success when growing them this way. The reason invariably is that the plant is pot-bound and needs moving to a larger size pot.

Dramateurs Analyze Poll Results; 'Rivals' Liked

"The Rivals," most recent production by the Dramateurs was rated "best-liked," an analysis of audience - completed questionnaires has revealed. "Anniversary Waltz" was least-liked.

However, "Separate Tables," had the highest rating, "The Rainmaker," was second and "The Rivals," third.

STATISTICAL compilation of replies to the questionnaires shows that 13 per cent of the theater-goers read about the play in the newspapers.

The questionnaires were distributed only to audiences attending "The Rivals."

It is planned to ask future audiences also to complete the forms, Dramateurs' spokesmen said.

Forty-one per cent of those responding said they attended "The Rivals" through contacts made by Dramateur members or persons appearing in the Sheridan comedy.

Nineteen per cent said they were "dragged, sandbagged, invited, willing and apparently otherwise by sponsors, friends and families," according to Grace Duffy, publicity chairman of the group.

One per cent "saw the sign in front of the building," and three per cent heard about the play from someone who had seen it.

AND 23 per cent were members and "inexplicables."

Many persons suggested plays they would like to see the Dramateurs do.

"They range from early Greek drama to Tennessee Williams — with many stops along the way," according to Phil Stearns, Dramateur president.

The Dramateur president thanked those who took time to complete the questionnaires.

"We are gratified by the response," he said. "From our tabulation of the forms we can be guided in our activities in the future," he added.

The next Dramateur production will be "The Happy Time," by Samuel Taylor. It will open Friday, August 7 at Town Hall, Lafayette.

RESERVATIONS — which must be made — can be had through Clarence Betz, CLifford 4-4141; Peg Stanislawsky at Hink's, Berkeley, THornwall 5-1100; and Ben's Seven Arts Book Shop, Walnut Creek, YEllowstone 5-3384.

On performance nights, reservations may be made through the Town Hall box office, Moraga Road and School Street, Lafayette, ATlantic 4-9965.

Contra Costa Selected for Big 6-Year Cancer Survey

Contra Costa County has been selected for part of the largest medical statistical study ever attempted in America, Mrs. Helen G. Macfarlane, executive director of the county branch of the American Cancer Society announced today.

The study will be launched this fall to discover why some people may be more likely to get cancer than others. Contra Costa is one of five northern California counties picked for the monumental survey and will have the third largest assignment, involving interviews with 2,155 families annually for the next six years.

Involvng more than 1,000,000 Americans nationally, this is the first such large scale family prospective study ever undertaken, and will be conducted with the assistance of 50,000 trained American Cancer Society volunteers, of which Contra Costa will supply more than 350, Mrs. Macfarlane said.

Volunteers for this county will be selected and trained in September and the study launched here, as throughout the country, in October, the county executive announced. She pointed out that without the aid of volunteers, the project would cost many millions of dollars.

The study, under the direction of Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, American Cancer Society Director of Statistical Research, also will probe the effect of environment on cancer and will attempt to learn more about symptoms of the disease to help improve early detection.

Dr. Hammond said that the information to be obtained is designed to test many theories about the cause of cancer as well as to clarify certain known facts about the disease, the nation's second largest killer.

Some of the factors to be investigated include: occupational hazards in relation to cancer; whether or not a tendency toward cancer is more prevalent in some families; what relationships exist between cancer and other diseases; whether frequency and other factors of childbirth are associated with cancer.

Other relationships to be studied are between diet, food, beverages and cancer; how effective cigarette filters may be in relation to lung cancer and whether inhaling cigarettes is a factor; how air pollution may be related to cancer, and whether or not one's standard of living has anything to do with his getting cancer.

Another major objective of the study is to find out what percentage of the public has undiagnosed cancer. Also investigators would like to know whether those who have cancer have had certain symptoms or think they have had them, or whether they have developed the disease without any apparent symptoms.

In Contra Costa, the more than 350 volunteer researchers will each select at least 10 households which he or she can expect to trace for the following six years. Each family will be reported on annually. A trained supervisor for each seven interviewers, plus an overall project chairman, will insure scientific standards, the county executive secretary explained.

Employing some of the same prospective techniques perfected in the widely acclaimed American Cancer Society Hammond-Horn study of smoking habits, the project nationally will study 500,000 families with more than 1,000,000 persons who are at least 30 years of age. Each family interviewed will have one member 45 years or older.

Contra Costa was selected as a representative county in California and one able to successfully conduct the scientifically-controlled survey. California is crucial among the 20 states picked for the study, because California has twice the national average of persons over 45, Mrs. Macfarlane revealed.

The giant upcoming project has been reviewed and approved by the American Cancer Society, after pilot studies in five cities, by the American Cancer Society Statistics Committee of which Dr. Ernest L. Stebbins, dean of the School of Hygiene and Public Health, John Hopkins University, is chairman.

It also was approved by the society's Medical and Scientific Committee of which Dr. John W. Cline, associate clinical professor of surgery, Stanford University School of Medicine, is chairman, prior to receiving final endorsement of the American Cancer Society Board of Directors.
